ATTLEE AND TRUMAN TO CONFER

Huge Red Chinese Army Surging Ahead Steadily

Expect Attack On Pyongyang By Red Forces

U.N. Forces Battle To Break Out Of Several Enemy Rings

By HOWARD HANDLEMAN
(Far Eastern Director, I. N. S.)

TOKYO, Dec. 1.—Troops of a 300,000-man Chinese Red Army swept down both sides and the middle of North Korea tonight in a multi-headed drive that neared Pyongyang and swirled around several trapped Allied units.

Communist Gen. Lin Piao's battle-seasoned forces from Manchuria began swarming across northwest Korea's Chongchon river under constant American air strafing for an expected assault on the former Red capital of Pyongyang.

In the northeast, the Red hordes slashed the main United Nations supply artery and waged bloody battles with American Marine and Army troops fighting to break out of enemy rings.

A late dispatch from the northeast front quoted Lt. Col. Raymond Murray, commander of the U. S. First Marine Division's Fifth Regiment, as saying:

Ration of 37 to 1

"We are killing them at a ratio of 37 to one, but it doesn't seem to be quite enough."

Already, the Chinese were striking at the vital trans-peninsular highway between Pyongyang and Wonsan in two places. And guerrilla forces attacked the principal supply road between Seoul and Pyongyang at a point 75 miles southeast of the later city.

But in Tokyo, Gen. Douglas MacArthur's intelligence chief, Maj. Gen. Charles A. Willoughby, said the situation is not yet so critical KOREA—Nearly 20,000 U. S. Marines and 7th Infantry Division troops began fighting south from the Chosin reservoir (1) attempting to break out of Communist trap. A rescue column of the 7th Division struck at enemy road blocks below Koto, 13 miles south of the reservoir. The Allied withdrawal from Chosin area exposes the flank of other 7th Division and ROK forces on the Yalu river at Hyesanjin (2). On the Chongchon river front, 200,000 Reds were regrouping as most Allied units retreated behind the new defense line 25 to 35 miles above Pyongyang. The United States 2nd Division and British brigade fought their way out of a trap by smashing an enemy road block below Kunu (3).

Delay Action In U.N. On Chinese And Korea Issues

Await Outcome Of Conference Between Truman And Attlee

By PIERRE J. HUSS
(I. N. S. Staff Correspondent)

FLUSHING MEADOW, N. Y., Dec. 1. — The western powers in the U. N. suspended consideration of Korean and Chinese Communist problems today to await major decisions expected from the weekend conference of President Truman and British Prime Minister Attlee.

The announcement of the scheduled meeting prompted the United States delegation to drop its plan to appeal to the General Assembly today for a U. N. demand to Communist China to withdraw its troops from Korea.

Instead, the United States and British representatives began talks on a course to follow in the assembly against the Peiping regime after the president and prime minister have made their decisions.

Will Withold Resolution

Deputy U. S. Representative Ernest A. Gross said that the resolution demanding Communist China quit Korea, vetoed yesterday by Russia in the security council, will be withheld from the assembly pending talks with other delegations. He estimated these would require from two to four days.

It is believed at the U. N. that Mr. Attlee will proceed to the assembly to make an important declaration after completing the conference with the president.

In the meantime the assembly will deal with a large number of

Red Caps Don't Like New Luggage Plan

NEW YORK, Dec. 1.—(INS)—Red Caps employed by 12 eastern railroads began charging a quarter each for luggage today but they don't like the increase.

The boost from 15 cents was ordered by the Interstate Commerce Commission at the request of the railroads, which pay the porters about $9 a day. The porters turn the quarters in to the railroads.

Willard Townsend, head of the Red Caps' union, said "when the porter has to make a charge for every bag or bundle, people give no tips. They complain and grumble."

British Prime Minister Will Talk To Truman

Prepares To Fly To Washington For Conference Monday

By JOHN A. REICHMANN
(I. N. S. Staff Correspondent)

WASHINGTON, Dec. 1.—British Prime Minister Clement Attlee leaves London Saturday or Sunday for a conference with President Truman in Washington on the explosive threat of a new world war.

The British leader and Mr. Truman will confer, probably Monday, on measures to repulse Communist aggression in North Korea.

This will include a discussion of the possibility of United Nations directing the United States to give Gen. Douglas MacArthur a supply of atom bombs to drop on the invading Chinese Red hordes in North Korea or on strategic targets in Manchuria.

Importance of Conference Seen

The importance of the conference was emphasized by the fact that Attlee announced it to the House of Commons only a few hours after Mr. Truman revealed that the United States has already considered use of the A-bomb in Korea.

The president told his news conference Thursday that the United States was considering use of the atom bomb in the Korean operation.

Later, in a clarifying statement, the White House explained that use of the bomb had been under consideration ever since the North Koreans crossed the 38th parallel to invade South Korea last June.

The president, however, emphasized that he has the sole power to authorize use of the atom bomb by United States forces. This power was vested in him by act of Congress.

Mr. Truman made it clear that he would let his military leaders determine the targets on which the bombs would be dropped if they are used.

At the momentous conference

Elaborate Plans To Guard Truman; Notables At Game

PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 1.—(INS)—Elaborate plans to safeguard President Truman and other high dignitaries by land and by air were double-checked today in preparation for tomorrow's Army-Navy football classic in Philadelphia.

U. S. air force fighter-bomber planes will police the skies over Municipal Stadium as the chief executive watches the traditional colorful windup of the football season.

The extraordinary precautions were arranged as a result of the attempted assassination of Mr. Truman at Blair House in Washington one month ago.

Secret service agents, who conferred at length with Philadelphia police officials, announced that for security reasons the time of the president's arrival at the stadium will not be announced.

Planes to protect the presidental party were assigned from the 136th Fighter-Bomber Wing based at Langley Field, Va.

They were ordered to prevent

Not 'Desperate Situation' Is Gen. MacArthur's Opinion

(BULLETIN)

TOKYO, Dec. 1—(INS)—Gen. Douglas MacArthur's Chief of Intelligence declared late today he is not prepared to "accept" the situation in Korea as "calling for desperate measures."

Maj. Gen. Charles A. Willoughby refused to discuss the question of whether atomic bombs may be used or the question of possible atom bomb targets in Korea.

The intelligence service head also declined to discuss the question of whether it will be necessary to carry the war to Communist China's Manchuria.

"Not Desperate Situation"

Willoughby said 300,000 regular Chinese Red troops of Gen. Lin Piao's command have been committed in Korea or are moving

All-Out U.S. Mobilization Is Discussed

President Confers On Action With Congress Leaders

By ROBERT G. NIXON
(I. N. S. Staff Correspondent)

WASHINGTON, Dec. 1.—President Truman meets with congressional leaders today to decide whether to order all-out United States mobilization to repulse red China's aggression and stave off another world war.

The President is seeking congressional advice on whether to increase tremendously the armed forces and to place the mighty strength of American industry on a wartime basis.

White House sources indicate the President will propose nearly 20 billion dollars in new appropriations for guns, tanks, planes and atomic bombs.

Mr. Truman outlines his new emergency defense blueprint to the leaders at 11 a. m. (EST).

He meets with his full cabinet an hour earlier to canvass the new mobilization plans, the critical battle situation in Korea and the new threat to world peace.

Reveals 300,000 Chinese Red Troops In Korea

Outlook However, Not Yet Critical For U.N. Divisions

By HOWARD HANDLEMAN
(Far Eastern Director, I. N. S.)

TOKYO, Dec. 1.—Gen. Douglas MacArthur's intelligence chief said today "desperate measures" are not yet needed in Korea, thus hinting that the atomic bomb may not have to be used to halt Red China's aggression.

Maj. Gen. Charles A. Willoughby revealed at a 90-minute news conference that 300,000 Chinese Communist troops now are in and near Korea, with another 550,000 farther north in Manchuria.

Outlook Not Critical

But he added that despite the sweeping Chinese advances of the past six days, the outlook is not yet critical for the United Nations.

The head of MacArthur's intelligence service refused to comment direct on President Truman's Thursday statement that America would use any weapons at her disposal, including atom bombs if necessary, to defend herself against Red aggression.

Asked by this correspondent whether the atom bomb would have to be employed to turn back the Chinese Communist aggression in Korea, Willoughby replied:

"Much as I regret to give an evasive or negative answer, it was news to me when I read it this morning. It is not in my purview."

The intelligence director then was asked whether any targets in North Korea would lend themselves to atomic treatment.

"I would prefer not to answer that," he said.

May Not Need Bomb

To a question about the general military situation in Korea, Willoughby then replied he is not prepared to "accept this as a desperate situation calling the desperate measures." He thereby in-

All-Out Probe Of Reds In U.S. Now Indicated

WASHINGTON, Dec. 1.—(INS)—Backers of an all-out Senate investigation of Communism, spying and sabotage predicted today it will be approved this month and get under way early next year.

Heartened by the support of Communist-hunting Sen. McCarthy (R) Wis., the senators sponsoring legislation to authorize the probe said they were confident it would pass without serious difficulty.

McCarthy declared the investigation, which would be conducted by the judiciary committee, was "an excellent idea proposed by excellent men."

The Wisconsin senator who startled the world with his charges of Communism in government and is generally credited with influencing the November 7 elections, said he would cooperate "1,000 percent" with the committee. He implied that he would make his files available and would testify if requested.

The authorizing resolution would provide $100,000 to finance the investigation, which would be a long-term affair and on the scale of that conducted by the House un-American activities committee.

Price Stabilization Director Is Named

TOLEDO, O., Dec. 1.—(INS)—Toledo Mayor Michael V. Disalle, newly named director of price stabilization, mapped preliminary control plans today pending his return to Washington next week to assume his federal post.

Disalle's appointment goes before the Senate today for confirmation. He flew back to Toledo from Washington late yesterday.

Questioned as to his price plans, Disalle said:

"I have some definite thinking on the subject of controls, but I will not make any statement until I have had an opportunity to check it against factual situations."

Anxious World Awaits Action At Washington

By J. LYNN LEONARD
(I. N. S. Staff Correspondent)

An anxious world looked today to Washington for major decisions by the Chiefs of the United States and British Governments on the Korean crisis and possible use of the atom bomb.

Britain's Prime Minister Clement Attlee made plans for an early departure from London to confer in Washington this weekend with President Truman after Mr. Truman declared that if needed in a last resort the A-bomb would be employed against the Communist Chinese.

The president's momentous statement and Attlee's immediate request for a Washington conference led to suspension of United Nations deliberations on the Korean conflict.

Delay on Move

Following Russia's veto yesterday in the security council of a resolution condemning Communist China's intervention and demanding the immediate withdrawal of its troops from Korea, the issue was to have been taken directly to the general assembly. However, plans by the U. S. to press the issue in the assembly were suspended on announcement of the forthcoming Truman-Attlee talks.

Leaders of democratic western powers meanwhile remained unde-

Two Firemen Injured Today

Dart And Shuliff Injured In Falls

Two firemen suffered injuries today, not believed to be serious, and firemen were sent scurrying to two addresses, when fire was discovered in the cellar of the home of Stanley Rendziniak, of 919 Clarence avenue, at 9:30 o'clock this morning. Damage of around $50 resulted from the fire.

The alarm was telephoned in, and firemen understood the address was on Florence avenue. In responding to the alarm there, Fireman Earl E. Dart, of No. 4 station, slipped and fell on the ice, suffering a cracked rib. He was treated at the New Castle hospital.

It was discovered a few minutes later that the fire was at 919 Clarence avenue, and additional firemen were sent to that location, where a pile of wood in the cellar had caught fire, spreading to the flooring above and damaged the electric wiring.

At the Clarence avenue address, Fireman William M. Shuliff fell down the cellar steps and injured his back. He was taken to the Jameson Memorial hospital for X-Ray examination to determine the full extent of his injuries.

Attlee Confers With His Advisers Before U.S. Trip

By CHARLES A. SMITH
(I. N. S. Staff Correspondent)

LONDON, Dec. 1. — British Prime Minister Clement Attlee held a series of conferences today with his closest advisers, preparatory to leaving for Washington to discuss the Korean crisis with President Truman.

Attlee will leave Britain by air either Saturday night or Sunday. His departure is being timed to permit the start of discussions in the American capital on Monday.

Foreign office sources said Attle is expected to leave Sunday night.

Holds Conferences

The prime minister held conferences at his residence with Foreign Secretary Ernest Bevan and Defense Minister Emanuel Shinwell. Other top ministers and British service chiefs are scheduled to see Attlee later in the day, giving assurance that Attlee will leave thoroughly primed on all the latest aspects of political, military and economic situations.

There also is expectation that Attlee will see Conservative party leader Winston Churchill and his deputy, former Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden.

There developed a growing demand in Conservative circles that Attlee be accompanied by some top-level Conservative such as Eden to prove to President Truman that Britons are acting in concert in the present crisis.

Government circles said that Attlee feels that virtually any sub-

Find Mother And Three Children Dead In Garage

ENGLEWOOD, N. J., Dec. 1.—(INS)—A young mother and her three children were found dead last night in the poisonous fume-filled garage of the family's home in the fashionable hill section of Englewood.

Mrs. Margaret Oppenheimer, 29, who had recently suffered a nervous breakdown, wrote a note to her husband, William, before taking the children into the garage.

Oppenheimer, a plant executive who, according to police came to New Jersey from St. Paul, Minn., a year ago, found the bodies at 10 p. m.

Mrs. Oppenheimer and the children, Ann, 5, Mary, 4, and William, Jr., 1, had been dead about four hours. They were found sitting in a car with the motor running.

Contents of the note were withheld by police. The family's home had been quarantined Wednesday because two of the children had scarlet fever.

Eastern U.S. Railroads Ask Rate Increase

WASHINGTON, Dec. 1.—(INS)—The eastern United States railroads today asked the government permission to raise freight rates four per cent to apply on every item except coal.

The eastern carriers comprising more than 175 railroads filed a petition with the Interstate Commerce Commission asking for the authority. For the shipment of coal, a flat 12 cents a net ton increase was asked.

If granted, the hike in freight rates would be the eighth since the end of World War II. Since that time, the ICC has authorized the eastern lines rate increases averaging 57 per cent resulting in a three billion dollar annual cost to the nation. The proposed increase would yield an estimated 141 million dollars annually to the railroads.

The railroads said increased rates were necessary to offset rising operating costs. Citing higher labor costs, the railroads said that these "together with the increased cost of fuel, materials and supplies, on the basis of Oct. 1, 1950, prices over those of July 1949" meant additional expenses of $127,113,000 to the carriers.

BRITISH PRIME MINISTER WILL TALK TO TRUMAN

between the heads of the two great English speaking nations the matters most likely to be discussed are:

1. How seriously does the U. S. consider using the A-bomb in the present situation?

2. Should a four power meeting—the U. S., Britain, France and Russia—be held, either on a chiefs-of-state basis or a foreign ministers level?

3. If one is held, what world-wide problems should be discussed?

4. How fast can Europe be rearmed and how much aid can the U. S. contribute immediately to hold off a Russian move in the west?

Diplomatic quarters read a great deal of political significance into Mr. Attlee's visit.

There have been other reports of a growing tendency to isolationism in both Britain and France.

In Britain especially, there was an immediate reaction to Mr. Truman's bomb statement. One hundred Labor party members of Commons drafted a petition saying that, should the A-bomb be used, Britain should withdraw her estimated 1,000 troops from Korea.

In France, the populace was said also to be terrified at the thought of using the bomb. As in other European countries, the main cities would be prime targets. While the U. S. is not likely to use the terror inspiring weapon on the cities of friends, there is no assurance that Moscow would hesitate to do so.

cided on the advisability of employing the atom bomb in any event. There were differences of opinion also among American political leaders.

Uppermost in all minds was the question whether eventual use of the dread weapon would bring about the sought-after peace or plunge the world into a terrifying third global conflict.

Attlee himself said his government feels any decision to use the atom bomb is of "such grave import" that it could not be taken on behalf of the U. N., without the fullest prior consultation of states taking part in the international police action in Korea.

Political opinion in London is that Attlee, besides discussing the atom bomb, will take up the subject of streamlining the political and military coordination of both countries.

The British prime minister revealed also that he is "working out with friends" an agenda for a possible meeting of the big four to consider dangerous world problems.

EXCESS PROFITS TAX BILL TO BE REPORTED

stitute will be defeated by the house and Republicans generally will vote for the committee bill. Passage is anticipated Tuesday or Wednesday.

In addition to applying a 75 per cent tax to excess profits, the bill also applies the same tax to 15 per cent of a corporation's normal pre-Korean war profits.

A corporation is permitted to select the best three or four years in the period 1946-49 as its earnings base.

In addition to the 75 per cent excess profits tax, the administration favored taxing 25 per cent of the pre-Korean war profits. It estimated the total revenue under this plan would be four billoin dollars.

Chief Republican opposition centered on the tax on normal profits. The Republicans may attempt to substitute a 70 or 75 per cent tax on excess profits, no tax on normal profits and the remainder of the 3.4 billion dollars to be made up through an increase in the regular present maximum corporation income tax.

Expect 100,000 Spectators

Meanwhile the vanguard of visiting "brass and braid" began to arrive in the Quaker City for the grid battle which will draw an expected 100,000 spectators.

The Pennsylvania railroad announced that it will maintain a 'parade" of 37 trains on Saturday to bring approximately one-third of the expected crowd direct to sidings outside Municipal Stadium.

The White House, meanwhile, prepared for a week-end conference on the world crisis between the President and British Prime Minister Clement Attlee.

ATTLEE CONFERS WITH ADVISERS BEFORE TRIP

ject can be raised or reviewed at the big two meeting. Attlee is said to be determined to take advantage of the visit to engage in the fullest and frankest exchange with the president.

The subject of the atom bomb will be tops on the list if Attlee has his wish. He is expected to stress that while Britain realizes the bomb would have to be used to save the west in any dire emergency, the British cannot accept the idea of permitting America alone to make the decision and time the use of the bomb.

Attlee will insist that Britain and other United Nations members cooperating in the police action in Korea must have a voice in such a matter fraught with possible vital consequences.

It was said that any other approach by Attlee to the A-bomb problem would result in an immediate serious schism within the Labor party.

Attlee is expected also to sound out Washington on closer collaboration in defense strategy and the possibility of reconstituting a combined chiefs of staff.

DELAY ACTION IN U.N. ON CHINESE AND KOREA ISSUES

secondary problems which must be cleared to permit fast action later on Communist China and Korea.

Soviet Vetoes Action

One immediate effect of the suspended action by the western powers and the security council's completion of talks on Korea and Formosa after the Soviet veto last night was that Peiping's Wu Hsiu-Chan is forced to cool his heels in inactivity at the Waldorf Astoria hotel.

The next appearance of the Peiping spokesman will be in the assembly's political committee, which still has on its agenda the issues of Formosa and Korea. India's Sir Bengal Rau has indicated he will make another try to establish the ground work for "heart to heart" talks with Wu apart from the Russians.

The six-power resolution led to the 4th veto cast by the Soviet Union over the past five years.

Malik Votes Alone

Soviet Delegate Jacob Malik alone voted in the negative against nine other council members favoring adoption of the resolution. In addition to calling for Peiping to withdraw its troops, the resolution also condemned Red China's intervention in Korea against U.N. forces and gave assurances the Manchurian border would be respected.

Sir Benegal Rau of India announced before the vote that his instructions had not been received and consequently he would not participate in the vote.

Those voting in favor were: Britain, the U. S., Yugoslavia, Cuba, Norway, Ecuador, France, Egypt and Nationalist China.

He added that he is not prepared "to accept this as a desperate situation calling for desperate measures."

In a 90-minute news conference, the general advised correspondents to "mark time" in judging the critical nature of the situation.

He pointed out that Lt. Gen. Walton H. Walker's Eighth Army in northwest Korea still has four American Army Divisions.

"These are still good divisions and intact," Willoughby said.

CONGRESS THE HOPE

Cluttered by lame ducks though it is, the special session of the 81st Congress will close the 150th year of the national legislative body in Washington, D. C. No previous session faced more grave problems, or was more ill equipped to meet them.

The first Congress convened in New York City in 1789, moved to Philadelphia in 1790 and created the District of Columbia as the seat of government. By 1800 the nation's capital was ready.

That year John Adams moved into the partially built "President's House" and the executive branch set up shop. The Post Office department in those days had nine employees on the payroll. The executive department had a total of 69 employees, compared to more than 2,000,000 today.

When Congress met in Washington in 1800 only the north wing of the capitol was in use. A tree was felled across a creek to give members access to the building. Washington then was a city of 400 little houses and a population of 3,000, land was 25 cent per square foot and Pennsylvania avenue was a bush-covered morass.

John Adams said in his address to Congress: "In this city may piety and virtue, wisdom and magnanimity be forever held in veneration." And the House, in reply to the president's address, echoed his hope that the new seat of government would always be "the residence of happiness and virtue."

There is widespread comment, in and out of Congress, today on how well those high hopes have been fulfilled.

Congress is the hope of representative government. An extensive department with too much power is an enemy of the people, while the integrity of the appointed Supreme Court depends on the integrity of those making the appointments. But Congress directly represents the people themselves, and when the voters fail to turn out members who are unfaithful to their constituents and become bootlickers for an overgrown and arrogant executive department which is also shot through with disloyalty, they fail to act at their peril.

THE WASTE GOES ON

Fire prevention is important at any time. It is especially important in a time of emergency, such as the present, when there is a heavy demand for manpower and materials of all kinds, and when waste is a serious drain on the energies of the nation.

The organized war against fire has increased in intensity. The experts are doing all they can to reduce the toll. But, unfortunately, the waste is continuing at a high and disgraceful rate. In the 12 months which ended September 30, for example, direct fire loss was more than $685,000,000—an increase of about two per cent over the preceding 12 months. This can only be a reflection of the public's failure to learn and apply the simple rules of fire prevention.

One tragedy of fire is that prevention, with few exceptions, is easy. It is estimated that less than 10 per cent of our fires are truly unavoidable. All the rest are caused by human failure of one kind or another. And the most common failures are plain carelessness and indifference.

The individual's principal fire prevention job lies in his home. Most home fires arise from the simplest of causes. Carelessness with smoking materials—improper storage of paints and solvents and other flammables—accumulations of old clothes, paper and trash—defective heating and electrical equipment—these are fire's most potent allies. Yet all of them can be easily and inexpensively eliminated.

Prevent fire—in your own interest, and in the interest of your country.

NO WALKS FOR TRUMAN

President Truman, often referred to as the world's most famous pedestrian, has been forced to give up his regular travels by foot from the executive residence to his office in the White House, a distance of 200 yards. He had been accustomed to making the round trip twice daily, while hundreds mostly tourists—lined the sidewalks to see him.

Since the recent attempt on his life he is transported in a bullet-proof car, surrounded by dozens of police and capital guards, and no one is allowed to approach the official caravan

Mr. Truman is the most heavily guarded of all presidents. He contends daily walks are responsible for his continued good health, and hopes are expressed that restrictions may eventually be lessened.

Under the present arrangement, the official car must be brought around for the short journey, and the president enters the official residence through a rear door. When he attends a public function, the number of guards is increased to a point where he is all but surrounded by them.

No normal American citizen would care for all these restrictions. To be prevented from going about at one's discretion smacks of dictatorship.

An English horticulturist has developed a chrysanthemum that smells like a violet. Wish he'd experiment with dandelions.

Another aluminum shortage is predicted. All those pots and pans housewives contributed in the last war apparently were shipped to Russia.

Many a woman may be convinced privately that her husband is a half-wit, but she would never admit that she was silly enough to marry such a guy.

In View Of News Of The World

Extremely Cautious British Policy

An extremely cautious British policy with regard to the new crisis in Korea was foreseen in the wake of Foreign Secretary Bevin's speech opening a foreign affairs debate in the House of Commons.

The address was noteworthy for two things:

First, Bevin admitted that Britain's offer to the Communist regime in Peiping to recognize the Red government on a basis of equality and reciprocity "has not attained its objective."

Second, he gave Britain's official stamp of approval to a proposal that representatives of the three Western powers meet in Paris next week to discuss Soviet Russia's proposal for a new Big Four conference.

So far as recognition of the Communist is concerned, that remains a purely one-sided affair. Mao Tse-Tung has not even replied officially on the subject but Peiping propagandist have made it clear they are interested in the proposal only on their own terms.

Curious Situation

With regard to the Big Four, Chinese Communist intervention in Korea and the speech before the United Nations Security Council by Red Delegate Wu Hsiu-Chuan have created a situation that is only serious in the extreme, but in addition to that somewhat curious from an international diplomatic viewpoint.

Best qualified observers at Lake Success sense a feeling that the United Nations as a world organization feels itself nothing less than afronted by Wu's mechanical, worshipful adherence to the Moscow line.

He is pictured as no longer attempting to maintain the illusion that his government is an independent one, but one that is quite ready to act on orders from Moscow alone.

Thus it seems that the six-member Security Council resolution of Nov. 11 calling for withdrawal of Chinese troops from Korea may pass by an unexpectedly large majority. Some observers believe it may get 10 votes, with Soviet Russia then imposing the veto.

Aim Of Russia

A principal point is that Russia, while remaining in the United Nations, and China, while attempting to gain entry, are determined to take initiative and punitive authority out of the organization's hands.

No world statesman who has dedicated his efforts to the U.N. and spent valuable time in attempting to overcome Moscow's dilatory tactics likes to be made a laughing stock.

It is quite possible, therefore, that the projected big three meeting may be regarded as a secondary, routine matter—not to be regarded as anything in the nature of appeasement but merely in furtherance of U. S. pledges to explore every possible avenue of peace.

Meanwhile, Bevin's admission that recognition of Communist China has not gained its objectives was a grave one indeed.

Bevin was forced to make it at one of the most difficult moments in the history of the commonwealth—and in that of the empire which preceded it.

Reported Spreading

A movement launched in Egypt for breaking ties with the British government is reported spreading to other countries of the Middle East where Britain has vital interests.

This action, undoubtedly Communist-aided, might prove disastrous for Britain.

There are vital British bases scattered all throughout the Near and Middle East. Oil supplies are dependent upon them as is satisfactory defense of the Suez Canal.

Now on top of these difficulties, Bevin has given the implication that with failure of diplomatic recognition it may become more and more difficult to save British interests in Hong Kong and even elsewhere on the Communist-controlled China mainland.

It probably was for this reason that Bevin warned that the possibility exists of a gigantic worldwide Russo-Chinese conspiracy against the Democracies—a revival of Asia for the Asiatics in possibly a stronger form than ever has been known before.

The Parent Problem

By Garry C. Myers, Ph. D.

THE TEEN-AGER'S ALLOWANCE

The average youth who has been practiced for many years in the proper use of a well-budgeted allowance, with the "free" portion of this allowance kept at a reasonably low amount, should be fairly well prepared to use his money wisely when he begins to earn. The trouble is that most youths have not been subjected to an allowance nor guided well in other ways in the wise use of money. (My bulletin, "Allowances" may be had in a stamped envelope sent me at 235 East 45th street, New York, N. Y.)

About the first thing the adolescent girl desires to do with her earnings is to purchase luxurious clothing and jewelry. She also wants a boy to spend his money on her. First of all, a boy wants to buy a "jalopy" or a car. This desire for a car has caused many a boy to quit school and go to work. Often this lad's parents give him the down payment on the car and even later payments including upkeep and insurance. The insurance being neglected, the parents may incur serious worries and financial burdens.

The average high school youth has no more need of a car than he has of an elephant. A car frequently results in moral harm to him and makes him a nuisance to his parents and to the public at large. Let us also not overlook the physical and moral hazards to the thousands of junior and senior high school boys and girls toted about often at great speed in the cars run or owend by youthful drivers. Any juvenile court judge can cite instance after instance of boys, even from "good" homes, who have gone wrong over a car. Young drivers are, as a rule, the most reckless drivers, and the poor quality of cars they often drive render them more hazardous. Insurance companies recognizing these facts charge a much higher premium on cars run by teen-agers.

Tire Stealing

Some of these young drivers have been tempted to engage in tire stealing, gas syphoning and the like. Why parents so readily sign papers permitting their adolescent child to drive or purchase a car is more than one can understand. Here is one place where parents who have lost all other controls over son or daughter can still reserve one effective measure of protection and control.

Many youth who have failed to use money wisely live at home while being employed without contributing to the family support, without paying board or helping with the household drudgeries, or even without doing their own laundry or tailoring or paying for its being done elsewhere. No matter how much they may earn, they may still demand that their parents buy their clothes, cigarettes, pay their doctor and dentist bills, and even give them extra spending money.

Yet we should hardly condemn these youths. They are only expecting o demanding from their parents what they always had been accustomed to receive. It takes more than a day for parents to develop a spendthrift youth who makes them both his slave and Santa Claus. What promise does this sort of youth have for helping to support and bring up a happy wholesome family of his own by and by? Of what value is he likely to be as a future citizen in community, state or nation?

Just Folks

DECEMEBER

How swiftly move along the years!
We've spent November.
Eleven months gone, and now appears a
The last—December.

At first the spring seemed far away
And winter crawling.
Then skies were blue and it was May
And birds were calling.

June and July went racing on,
(Strife where peace should be)
As if from earth they would be gone
As fast as could be.

Now soon again that star will shine
We all remember,
And Bethlehem and that birth divine!
Once more—December.

Folks Of Fame

This American Revolutionary soldier, Israel Putnam, was born in Salem Village (now Danvers), Mass., on Jan. 7, 1718, and later moved to Connecticut. He saw action in the French and Indian war, rising to the rank of major in 1758. He was ploughing on his farm when news of fighting at Lexington and Concord reached him, and he left his plough in the furrow and headed for Cambridge. He was made second brigadier of the Connecticut forces and took part in the Battle of Bunker Hill. After the evacuation of Boston he was in command of New York City until Gen. George Washington's arrival. He took part in a number of other battles, but an attack of paralysis terminated his war service. He died on his farm in Brooklyn, Conn., May 29, 1790.

Andre Kostelanetz was born in Leningrad, Russia; was a student at St. Peter's school and the St. Petersburg Conservatory of Music. He came to the United States in 1922 and became a naturalized citizen. He was music director of the Cincinnati Conservatory of Music, and has been orchestra conductor of a radio broadcasting system since 1930. He appears each season as guest conductor with symphony orchestras in the United States and foreign countries. During World War II he made overseas tours conducting soldier orchestras organized and trained by him. In 1938, he married a noted opera soprano.

Washington Calling

(By MARQUIS CHILDS)

The MacArthur Story

WASHINGTON, Dec. 1—Shortly after V-J Day one of America's most distinguished historians was sent to every theater of the war on a survey trip. His assignment from Secretary of War Henry L. Stimson was to line up the great body of raw material that would eventually be used in writing the history of the conflict.

He talked with the commanders of the European armies and then in Tokyo he sat down with Gen. Douglas MacArthur. In the course of their conversation the historian expressed particular interest in one of the battles of MacArthur's campaign.

"I had the impression, general," he said, "that your left flank at that point was exceedingly weak. That, in fact, it may have been dangerously weak."

Hazards of Undertaking

MacArthur's response was immediate. He congratulated the historian on his perceptivity. He explained with all the drama of his dramatic personality the hazards of the undertaking and how they had been overcome.

A day or two later the inquiring historian put the same question to Gen. Walter Kreuger who had been MacArthur's chief of staff in the Philippines. Kreuger replied that, far from being weak, the forces disposed on the left flank had been at least ample and probably excessive. The perplexed historian argued that surely this could not be true. He was convinced only when Kreuger called for the tables of organization which showed that Kreuger was correct.

What the wise historian recognized in this incident was General MacArthur's irresistible urge for the dramatic. He had readily convinced himself that the drama of this particular battle was of an even more heroic order than it actually was.

MacArthur is said to be the only commander of World War II who has declined to make the documents of his theater available for the over-all history officially in preparation. Instead he has his own force of historians at work in Tokyo and their version of such disputed incidents as the bombing of a Japanese fleet in the battle of the Bismark sea will be as MacArthur first recorded it even though every other account may differ.

Recent Dramatic Flight

MacArthur's recent dramatic flight in his unarmed transport plane deep into Communist Chinese territory had its counterpart in the fall of 1943. As Allied paratroopers landed on New Guinea, MacArthur personally led them over the objective. A photograph showed him observing the action from the waist gunner's window of a Flying Fortress. Returning to headquarters, he said: "I didn't want my paratroopers to enter their first combat, fraught with such hazards, without such comfort as my presence might bring them."

There is also in the record of World War II what may be an unhappy parallel for MacArthur's proclamation last week that he would end this war in Korea in time to bring the boys home for Christmas. It will be a parallel, that is, if Communist resistance continues, as it is now doing, to check the United Nations advance.

In early February of 1945, MacArthur announced the fall of Manila. Correspondents who were with him then recall that preparations were offered for a triumphal entry into the city with the general riding in an ordinary jeep at the head of the procession.

Had Not Fallen

But Manila had not in fact fallen. For days and then weeks the battle for the city dragged out. The American Long Toms—155 millimeter rifles—roared on, shelling the Japs inside the city and on its outskirts.

Not until three weeks later were the Jap forces quelled and the city taken. Much of Manila was by that time a smoking ruin. The loss of life among the civilian population had been heavy. Any idea of a triumphal entry was quickly abandoned.

It is the drama of his personality that is undoubtedly one reason why General MacArthur inspires such fervid hero-worship. Such hero-worshipers as Sen. William F. Knowland almost literally sit at his feet and believe he can do no wrong.

There are many hero-worshipers, too, on his own staff. Those who ve they understand and appreciate MacArthur's true greatness as a military man feel that often his hero-worshipers do him a disservice. They tend to magnify the drama rather than supplying the kind of realism that might be a wholesome corrective.

The MacArthur story is in every respect an extraordinary one. So strong are the feelings of the participants and so fierce are the political currents that it may never be put in true perspective even when all the documents are available. But no one, no matter how strong his feelings pro or con, can deny its fascination.

One Man's Opinion

The nation's educators want a couple of TV channels saved for them but I can't see my old school teacher in a plunging smockline.

Even now there is educational value in television . . . Know a two-year-old who can run right through the alphabet A, B, C, D, Faye, G, H, and so on.

But if the kids have been spending too much time watching TV, education would be the drastic cure.

That will be the day . . . when the kids are dragged, squawking and screaming into the TV room and ordered to "watch that screen until I tell you you can quit!"

Three youngsters in my neighborhood have taken the customary precautions against that evil happening . . . They have written Hop-A-Long to keep his horse saddled and wait by the big tree for further instructions.

Getting the channels might not be a big problem as getting people to watch them . . . (If Berle has a bigger appeal than books it's because the bookmen haven't polished up their act.

The slogan of show business is not "always leave 'em yawning when you say goodbye!"

LAKE SUCCESS, N. Y.—Warren Austin, Chief U. S. Delegate to the U.N.: "I repeat that the problem is this: Will there be peace or war in the Far East? The world awaits anxiously the answer to this question."

Looks like the property owners are going to pay more taxes . . . it takes cash to run a city the size of New Castle and the property owners do their share . . . and this group has one bit on consolation . . . those who own no property and have slipped by without paying their share will have an opportunity to chip in when the amusement tax is levied . . . There is opposition to the amusement tax and there is opposition to the property tax . . . But taxes are here to stay and as much of our lives as anything we have to contend with . . . our thought is that all people should help pay the way . . . the payroll tax is a fair one as far as that point is concerned . . . and the additional amusement tax (federal government already takes a share of your amusement money . . . the Charity Rotary show paid over nine hundred bucks to Uncle Sammie) also gives those who haven't the opportunity to help support the city an opportunity . . . Of course, we property owners pay twice.

Snow removal is going along nicely . . . but did you ever see anyone work such long hours at the job of directing this type of chore as that guy Jokey Travers . . . Early each morning and we do mean early . . . until midnight "Jokey" is out on the street . . . and work is done. Good work old boy.

Still we find those who are just riding around in their cars . . . looking over the landscape . . . this is no time for sightseers . . . and you have nothing to fall back on if the police haul you up before the Mayor for such operation of a vehicle. There is still plenty of work to be done on the streets . . . each hour counts . . . for with every ton of snow dumped into the river . . . means that we all are that much safer from a flood caused by a quick thaw.

Sure wish there was a way to find the good deed stories that have been made during the past week . . . but the people just haven't had time to talk . . . and many won't ever mention the work they have done . . . and the irony of it all . . . there are people who won't ever appreciate the help they have received . . . See you all tomorrow.

Conflicting Theories

(By HOLMES ALEXANDER)

WASHINGTON, D.C., Dec. 1—Two theories in direct contrast to one another face the lame duck Congress as it considers President Truman's request for a $75 million loan to Yugoslavia and also his appointment of five members to the Anti-Subversive Control Board which administrates the McCarran Act. For the Yugoslavian loan and the McCarran Act mean, respectively, these two conflicting things:

1. A Communist doesn't have to be pro-Russian.
2. A Communist is pro-Russian by nature and definition.

Plainly both these theories can't be correct. If Congress is going to reward Tito for being an anti-Russian Red, it should be logical and repeal the McCarran Act right away. The McCarran Act says in its preamble that Communism is a world conspiracy and that all Communist parties, here and abroad, are bossed by Moscow. The Act, by implication, goes even further than that. Woven throughout the legal verbiage is the principle that once a totalitarian, always a totalitarian. We saw an absurd application of this principal several weeks ago when the immigration authorities detained a poor fellow who at the age of 10 had gone to a Fascist military school and given the Mussolini salute.

Redemption Impossible?

We are dealing here with the un-Christian idea that redemption is impossible, and that a sinner—even a 10-year-old sinner—is beyond reform. This is poor ethics and lame logic, and it's even worse politics. The Republican Congressmen, in particular, are just back from a campaign which was an exercise in redemption. What were they doing if not beseeching the American electorate to repent of its follies of 1948? Furthermore, every Congressman who voted for the Marshall Plan was endorsing the theory that Communists in Italy, France and elsewhere could be redeemed. The loan to Tito, of course, would prove that it pays to reform even in part. So how can the Congressmen who voted for the McCarran Act logically vote for the loan?

There is more than frivolity in these points I'm raising. Serious matters of foreign and domestic policy are involved. Obviously it is a good thing to feed the Yugoslavians and keep them fit to fight the Russians for us. It is a good thing to keep Tito in power so that he remains a mockery and a hindrance to Stalin. We will probably do the same for Mao Tse-tung if—as Secretary Acheson has been hoping—Mao turns into a Chinese Tito. Who would have predicted four years ago, when Tito was shooting down American planes and aiding the Greek rebels, that we would be bolstering his regime in so short a time?

Short And Temporal View

But to endorse a loan to Tito or Mao is to take only a short and temporal view of the principle. The long view, and one which Congress ought certainly to consider, is another matter. If we buttress and sustain anti-Stalin Communist, we are still buttressing and sustaining anti-capitalist and anti-Democratic governments. Management and labor in America are actually being taxed to build up socialism and huge cadres of State-controlled workers abroad. We are doing this, of course, in Britain and Western Europe, too. It is worth at least a little bit of Senator Taft's "reexamination" to find out how far we have gone and how much further we ought to go in this direction. Nobody can deny that Tito, with the second best army in Europe, is a useful ally for the cold war or World War III. But we learned in World War II that a fighting ally is not necessarily an eternal friend. Can a capitalistic system long survive by investing its profits in Socialism and Communism which we know to be deadly enemies of free enterprise and free opportunity?

Problem Of Finding Jail Space

Under the McCarran Act we will soon be up against the proposition of finding jail-space for thousands of members of the Communist party who will almost certainly refuse to register. This is an expensive business, and what does it prove? We may take some satisfaction in seeing the Reds go to the lock-up, but again there's a long-range viewpoint that Congress ought to consider. Does it make sense to assume that a domestic Communist beyond redemption but that a Yugoslavian Communist isn't? Must we take it for granted that a Union Square Red, unlike Tito, does and must always take his instructions from Moscow?

One advantage to being a reporter instead of a politician is that you can pose these contradicitions without knowing how to resolve them. But it's evident that a lot of "reexamination" is due on the whole problem of Communism. Neither the Yugoslavian loan nor the McCarran Act stands up to careful scrutiny. Congress hasn't even begun to find a solution yet.

Looking At Life

By ERICH BRANDEIS

Does your wife trust you?

Would she do for you what this wife did?

This wife saw Olsen's and Johnson's "Pardon my French" with her husband.

It's a typical Olsen and Johnson show—a lot of noise, a lot of foolishness, a lot of beautiful girls—and Denise Darcel, fresh from Paris and typical of Paris, a symphony in curves, enticing enough to take at least ten years off the ordinary thoughts of any man under 95.

During the performance the above-mentioned wife noticed her husband wiggling in his seat and, when the lights were low, casting comparative glances at her.

And once, during the show, when Denise Darcel gave a specially spectacular display of whatever she has to display, he exclaimed spontaneously: "Gee, ain't she wonderful!"

The reason I know all this is that Ole Olsen told me. And he got it all in a letter this woman wrote him the day after the show.

After unburdening herself, she finished her epistle with a request.

She asked for a photograph of Denise, autographed by the actress to her husband.

That wife was clever.

Undoubtedly she did not like her husband's visible and audible admiration of the Parisian siren.

But did she hit him with the program? Did she pout? Did she nag?

She did not. She used psychology.

Ole Olsen DID send her the photograph.

Now the husband has it.

What is he going to do with it? Frame it and hang it up in his den? He is NOT.

That photograph will be just like a rip in his trousers. Others may not see the rip. But he knows it is there. He is conscious of it. He is embarassed.

Pretty soon he'll get tired of those pants and throw them away.

That photograph will make him feel like a darn fool. Not so much because he knows that Denise Darcel was just a momentary dream.

It's because he knows that his wife could see right through him and because she called his imaginary bluff.

Sometimes I wish women weren't so gosh darn perspicacious.

I don't think that any man can fool his wife very much. Nor do I think that women are nearly as ignorant of their husband's occasional extracurricular thoughts and doings as they try to make believe.

Incidentally, I am inclined to think that my own wife is beginning to trust me more than I would like.

As long as a wife DOUBTS her husband it is an indication that she still considers him attractive and desirable.

A shoe is at its best when it is not yet too comfortable.

State Police Say:

If it takes you 30 seconds to read this brief item, two persons will be injured in traffic accidents somewhere in the United States while you read. If you spend 15 minutes reading the sports page or the comics, one person will be killed in traffic during that time. Every minute throughout the year two persons are injured, every 15 minutes someone is killed in traffic. That adds up to the rather frightening total of 32,200 killed, 1,100,000 injured, and property damage in the amount of $1,100,000,000 in one year's time.

Conference Of Big Four Urged By Churchill

By CHARLES A. SMITH
(I. N. S. Staff Correspondent)

LONDON, Dec. 1. — Winston Churchill on Thursday urged a Big Four conference to settle the world's problems, and said that only American Atomic bomb superiority is staving off disaster now.

The war-time prime minister addressed the House of Commons during the second day of a foreign affairs debate on his 76th birthday.

He said he believes a major attack by Russia in Europe is not likely in the near future and expressed hope that a settlement can be reached before Russia attains A-bomb equality.

He stressed the value of "personal contacts" among world leaders and said the Big Four should meet in secret if necessary.

With regard to Soviet strength, he said:

"Russian policy has gained control of half of Europe and all of China without losing a single Russian soldier . . .

"They show no sign of being in any way satiated or satisfied. I can perceive no limit at present to their aims . . .

"The Soviet stockpile of atomic bombs is growing."

Churchill said:

Fates Bound Together

"Let us not separate ourselves in action and understanding sympathy from the United States, not indulge in criticism of their commanders or do anything to weaken the vital ties which bind our fates together."

He reminded the House how the U. S. is bearing the brunt of the burden in the Far East and suffering the highest loss of blood.

Churchill urged earliest reconstitution of the combined chiefs of staff and recommended stronger British representation at Lake Success.

He concluded:

"Let us make our fundamental unity apparent to the world.

"The best hope of avoiding a third world war . . . is not by appeasement through weakness but by proof of an unconquerable resolve."

"If war ever comes—which God forbid—it will come at the moment of Russia's choice.

"It is impossible to prophesy what she will do or how she will do it, but it does not seem that Russia intends to begin a major struggle now.

"I venture to express the opinion that a major attack by Russia in Europe is not likely in the near future."

Churchill urged the western powers to use what he termed the remaining breathing space "to reach a settlement with Soviet Russia as soon as a suitable opportunity presents itself."

Will Seek To Push Civil Defense Bill Through Congress

WASHINGTON, Dec. 1.—(INS)—Administration leaders sought today to push the far-reaching Durham civil defense bill through the present lame duck session of Congress.

The measure is expected to be taken from the House armed services committee today and transferred to House members of the House-Senate atomic committee—who already have participated in hearings on civil defense.

Despite previous hearings and the urgency created by the possible start of atomic warfare in Korea, hearings are expected to be fairly lengthy because of the broad powers conferred on the civil defense administrator.

Wierd Way To Make Living In Hollywood

By MARALYN MARSH
(I. N. S. Staff Correspondent)

HOLLYWOOD, Dec. 1.—There are a lot of freak ways you can pick up a quick buck in Hollywood, but wrapping turbans for a living is one of the wierdist.

There is a little guy in town who does just that—and nothing else. He is Bhogwan Singh, who winds his way around some of Flickerville's biggest heads.

Swarthy Singh, who has been living off Hollywood heads since 1913, said he knows 10,000 ways to wrap a turban. And all different, too, which makes it a full-time job.

Arms A Bit Tired

Today the enthusiastic Singh's arms were a bit tired—he had to wrap headdresses on 300 Indian troops plus heart-throb Stewart Granger for some scenes in a Hollywood opus now before the cameras.

For Granger, the entwiner whipped up a simple little number only taking five minutes or so. The handsome actor plays a British soldier who impersonates a native outlaw. Because Granger was supposed to wrap his own chapeau and knew little about it, Singh did a rather amateurish job.

Many are the complexities of the turban, as Singh is the first to explain. Not only do sexy female gowns have slashed V throats—so do certain turbans.

Signifies Religious Man

Actually, this V signifies a Brahman or religious man.

The small man with the busy fingers carefully explained that a turban is a strip of cloth between six inches and a yard wide, and between eight and 30 feet long. It is worn on the head to keep the sun, swords, cannon balls and insects off.

As for the hopped-up chorus gal's version of a turban, Singh snorted:

"Huh, those aren't turbans—particularly those hats that they call turbans. No Indian would be caught at a flea fight in one of those.

"Still, I'll admit some of the gals do pretty good jobs of wrapping them. And they do serve a useful purpose—for hiding curlers or dirty hair, don't they?"

Singh emphasized that a different type of turban is used for soldiers, butlers, servants, doormen, sweepers and politicians. In other words, turbans have a strict caste system.

It's hard to believe there would be enough turban wearers in Hollywood to warrant an eat-able wage for Singh. But he has been twisting and and turning for 37 years, and at Cadillac convertible pay.

Gen. MacArthur Makes Reply To Some Reports

NEW YORK, Dec. 1.—(INS)—The New York Times said today it has been informed by Gen. MacArthur that he "received no suggestion from any authoritative source" that U. N. forces in Korea should stop at the 38th parallel or at any other point short of the Manchurian border.

The Times quoted the supreme commander as saying, "every strategic and tactical movement made by the U. N. command has been in complete accordance with U. N. resolutions and in compliance with the directives under which I operate, every major step having been previously reported and fully approved."

The story, written in Washington by Times columnist Arthur Krock, was based on a cable from Gen. MacArthur in response to an inquiry from the Times.

The inquiry said that some unidentified officials in Washington declared that every time a stop point was suggested to MacArthur he replied that he would not accept responsibility for the security of his troops in these circumstances.

DANGEROUS SPORT

SINGAPORE — A mammoth swordfish leaped into a 10-foot fishing boat, carried out a split-second attack on the Malay fisherman and dived back into the sea. The fisherman suffered a deep flesh wound. The fish nearly capsized the craft during the attack.

Steelworkers Accept Wage Agreement; Steel Prices Hiked

PITTSBURGH, Dec. 1.—(INS)—The CIO-United Steelworkers union on Wednesday accepted an average 16-cent-an-hour wage hike from United States Steel, and the giant corporation immediately announced a 5½ per cent increase in its prices.

Both the price and pay boosts become effective today.

Receiving the raise are 165,000 production and maintenance workers of six big operating subsidiaries of "big steel".

The raise ranges from 12½ to 28 cents an hour for the 32 job classifications provided in the union's contract.

The union also succeeded in reducing the southern differential by winning a general increase averaging 20½ cents per hour for employes of the Tennessee Coal, Iron & Railroad company, one of the U. S. subsidiaries.

Differential Reduced

This reduces the differential by 4½ cents to 10 cents an hour. The southern increases range from 17 cents to 32½ cents per hour.

The big steel settlement opens the way for the CIO-USW to come to terms with 1,400 other basic and fabricating companies throughout the country, employing nearly a million steelworkers.

Benjamin F. Fairless, U. S. Steel president, in a statement released immediately after the union gave its approval to the company's offer, said the increase would cost U. S. Steel 125 million dollars a year and up its employment costs by 11 per cent.

"Based on current tonnages," Fairless added, "this is equivalent on a per ton basis to 5½ per cent of the present average price of a ton of steel."

Fairless said the price increases vary, but "as a whole average 5½ per cent of present prices, which for the most part have not been increased since December, 1949."

Salary Hikes For Other State Agency Officials Are Likely

HARRISBURG, Dec. 1.—(INS)—A Justice Department ruling which clarified a constitutional prohibition appeared today to open the door for similar hikes for other state agency officials.

The ruling stated that the PUC was an "arm of the legislature" and thus not affected by the constitutional ban against increasing the terms of office or salaries of officials while incumbent.

The ruling conceivably can affect members of the Pennsylvania Securities Commission, the Unemployment Compensation Board of Review, the State Board of Censors, the State Athletic Commission, Mine Inspectors and Workmen's Compensation Referees.

Boosted Pay

In 1949, the general assembly boosted the pay in practically all the top job classifications but the incumbents for the most part held little hope of collecting any of the money because of the constitutional ban. If reappointed they were certain to benefit.

However, Attorney General Charles J. Margiotti and Deputy Harry F. Stambaugh searched the lawbooks and the constitution and drafted a 13-page opinion approving the PUC salary raises. The question was posed by Auditor General Weldon B. Hayburn.

Thus, chairman John Siggins, Jr., whose term expires in April, will receive bi-monthly paychecks on the basis of $15,000 a year. Commissioners, B. Frank Morgal, John B. Conly, Henry Houck and Harold A. Scragg will have theirs drawn on the basis of $14,000 a year.

In addition, Siggins will get $7500 in back pay and the others about $6800 each.

Before the windfall, the pay was $10,000 for each member plus $500 a year more for the chairman.

Communion For K. Of C. Council

Sunday morning, December 3, the Knights of Columbus Council No. 512 will observe a day of Holy Communion in honor of the Holy Year, with other councils throughout the western hemisphere.

The council will receive Holy Communion at St. Mary's church at the 8 o'clock mass. Grand knight Sam Dambrocia announced that if any member cannot receive Holy Communion at St. Mary's church, they may do so at their own respective Catholic church. Communion will be offered for the intention of the Holy Father.

The communion breakfast slated to follow the communion has been cancelled, it was stated.

The intention for Communion Sunday is to obtain among the nations of the world a just and lasting peace. This Sunday was chosen because it is the first Sunday of Advent, the season dedicated to recollection and preparation for the coming of the Prince of Peace, the Saviour of Mankind.

Parochial Schools To Resume Monday

It was announced that all parochial schools in the Pittsburgh diocese will resume their classes Monday morning, December 4.

Schools were dismissed due to the heavy snow storm which enveloped the Lawrence county area since last Saturday.

Charge Reds Dominate Puerto Rican Party

WASHINGTON, Dec. 1—(INS)—A Democratic congressman charged today that communists dominate the Puerto Rican Nationalist party and that the plot on President Truman's life was "communist-inspired".

The accusation was made by Chairman Wood, Ga., of the house un-American activities committee, who said, however, that he does not think his group will investigate the Nov. 1 assassination attempt nor the alleged tie-up between communists and nationalists.

Wood recently returned from an inspection trip in Puerto Rico.

New Bargaining Talks Are Opened

CHICAGO, Dec. 1.—(INS)—The farm equipment council of the Independent United Electrical Workers Union opens new bargaining talks in Chicago today with International Harvester Co., reportedly to obtain benefits recently won by the rival CIO-United Auto Workers.

Fe, which represents 27,000 workers in eleven Harvester plants, signed a two-year agreement with the company September 10 after a three-week strike. The new contract provided a 10-cent hourly wage boost.

The UAW, which struck for 10 weeks, won a five-year contract providing greater union security, more liberal vacation allowances and wages increases amounting to five cents an hour higher than the Fe contract rates in the top four labor classifications.

Youthful Trio Facing Charges Of Kidnaping Man

PAW PAW, Mich., Dec. 1.—(INS)—A Chicago industrial engineer was returned home today after escaping from a youthful trio of kidnapers who held him at gunpoint during a terror-filled four-hour ride from Chicago.

The kidnap victim, 43-year-old Theodore W. Seabergh, an executive of the Carnegie-Illinois Steel Co., told police he jumped from his own moving car in Paw Paw shortly before midnight.

The trio, two young men and a girl, robbed him of four dollars.

Seabergh was made captive when he returned to his car from shopping. He told police he was repeatedly threatened on the trip and feared he would be shot at any moment.

The victim leaped from the car when it slowed down for an intersection and ran to a nearby tavern where he notified police.

Within 30 minutes, roadblocks had trapped the trio in Kalamazoo, 16 miles away. State police are holding 20-year-old John Cartwright of Graveville, Fla.; 17-year-old James F. Anglin of Woodstock, Ga., and 18-year-old Joyce Butler of Atlanta.

Today's Fashion Flash

By PHYLLIS BATTELLE

NEW YORK, Dec. 1—(INS)—The 1951 spring hats will be straight across the top—slanted to the front—and brilliant in color.

That's the prediction of several of New York's top milliners, who showed their collections today to enthusiastic viewers.

Florence Reichman, modish milliner of 57th Street, showed a group of small noggin-covers. They were principally in sailor shape, with oval brims, and the silhouette was as predicted by big-name milliners everywhere: straight-on-the-head, forward tilted, and gay.

Most unusual new hat trimming is the appliqued velvet flower against net or velvet crown.

Most popular new spring hat color is pink. "It complements," say designers, "every new fashion shade, including violet and midnight blue."

One In Twenty May Spend Part Of Life In Mental Hospital

CHICAGO, Dec. 1—(INS)—Dr. William C. Menninger, one of the nation's leading psychiatrists, predicted last night that one of every 20 Americans will spend part of his life in a mental hospital if present trends continue.

With his father, Charles, and his brother, Karl—both famous psychiatrists—he described the work and aspirations of the Menninger Foundation at Topeka, Kas., to an audience of medical experts at a dinner in Chicago. He said:

"More than one million school children now are suffering from severe behavior disorders which may one day result in hospitalization.

"Look at the alarming increases in crime, divorce, alcoholism and delinquency—all this is evidence that we live in a distressed world where men fail to understand men and often cannot get along even with themselves."

U.P. Prayer Group Cancels Meeting

Members of the Tuesday Morning Prayer group, composed of women of various United Presbyterian congregation of New Castle and vicinity, will not meet Tuesday morning, December 5, at Second U. P. church, as planned.

Members of the group are asked at that time to pray in their homes concerning world conditions. This suggestion has been made by the executive committee.

"Poor Security" At Argonne Laboratory

CHICAGO, Dec. 1—(INS)—The Independent Argonne Guards Union charged today that there is "poor security" at the Argonne National Laboratory, a vital center in the nation's atomic energy program.

The union claims the laboratory employes less than half the number of guards needed to patrol the 3,000-acre installation.

Union business agent Marlin W. Griffith said the charge will be presented to the American Arbitration Association in Chicago today in a meeting on the suspension of a guard last August for improperly permitting an employe to leave a restricted area.

Keystone Automobile Club Warns Against "Driving Too Closely"

PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 1—(INS)—Number one rule for driving on the new eastern extension of the Pennsylvania turnpike is "don't follow too closely."

The Keystone Automobile club reports that violation of this rule is the primary cause of turnpike crashes. The club said:

"Not being accustomed to speeds of 60, 65 and more miles per hour, the driver does not realize that his increased speed is covering ground nearly twice as fast as is his usual habit and that it requires twice the distance to bring his car under full control to slow down or to stop."

GREETINGS—NO TICKETS

IRVINGTON, N. J., Dec. 1—(INS)—Christmas shoppers in Irvington will get greeting cards instead of overtime parking tickets this year.

The chamber of commerce has supplied the police with 500 nickels with instruction to deposit them in parking meters displaying a "violation" sign.

In each offending car the officers will leave a card inviting the owner to return the nickel to the police department.

Man Wounded In Unusual Manner

PITTSBURGH, Dec. 1—(INS)—Charles Rhodes, a cleaning plant employe, was recovering today from a bullet wound in his left chest, but there was no one to pin the shooting on except maybe a soiled pair of trousers.

Rhodes said he heard a "ping" while at work yesterday, and a minute later realized he had been shot. The bullet evidently had fallen from the pocket of a pair of trousers in the cleaning vat and exploded when it landed in a groove at the bottom of the vat.

New Type Gun Freezes Cancers

Developed By Group Of Chicago Doctors

By ROBERT N. SCHWARTZ
(I. N. S. Staff Correspondent)

CHICAGO, Dec. 1—(INS)—A man-from Mars-type gun which freezes cancers almost instantly with a blast of carbon dioxide has been developed by a group of Chicago doctors.

The gun, produced at Presbyterian Hospital, freezes the malignant growth at a temperature of 56 degrees below zero.

A hospital spokesman said this enables surgeons to remove cancers or tumors from such organs as the bladder, for instance, without leaving scar tissue when the incision heals.

He described the gun as a long tube with a trigger mechanism in one end and a small, flat disk on the other.

Scar tissue has long been one of the most diifficult problems for doctors treating persons who have had operations in organs such as the bladder or brain.

In the bladder the tissue which marked the path of the surgeon's scalpel closed off, in many case, the tiny tubes through which urine flows.

In the brain scar tissue can disrupt the function of nerves and blood vessels.

Victims Were Doomed

In the past, the hospital spokesman noted, cancers of the bladder were often inoperable because of the danger of tough scar tissue and victims were doomed to wracking and excruciating pain.

This is how the fantastic gun works:

The bladder is exposed and the disk if the gun is placed against the malignant growth. Then the trigger is released.

A stream of carbon dioxide gas under 1,000 pounds per square inch pressure, swirls into the barrel of the gun and against the disk.

Tissue touching the disk is instantly and thoroughly frozen.

Names of the research workers and doctors who developed the quick-freeze gun were not disclosed by the hospital.

Thus far, the gun has been used on only 17 patients, all of them desperately ill with advanced cancers of the bladder.

In all cases, the spokesman asserted, the operations were successful — the cancerous growths were removed and no scar tissue was left behind to block functioning of the bladder, he added:

"All of these people have been given remarkable relief from pain." Whether they would survive, he observed, was dependent on how far the deadly growth had spread from the bladder.

Surgeons pointed out that use of the gun will enable them to remove without hestitation now tumors which sometimes develop into cancers.

To Examine Effects Of Airplane Flight On The Human Body

PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 1.—(INS)—A unique joint program to examine the effects of airplane flight on the human body has been announced by the University of Pennsylvania and the Naval Air Development Center at Johnsville, Pa.

Under the affiliation, there will be a mutual exchange of personnel and facilities, including the big "human centrifuge". The latter is a machine capable of whirling a human at speeds and under forces identical with those sustained in flight.

Highly complex and sensitive devices will be used to record the blood pressure, temperature, pulse and other physiological phenomena while the centrifuge is in operation.

The agreement of affiliation was signed yesterday by Harold E. Stassen, president of the University of Pennsylvania, and Capt. Seldon B. Spangler, commander of the Naval Air Development Center.

Employment Gains And Losses In State Balance In October

HARRISBURG, Dec. 1.—(INS)—Employment gains and losses nearly offset each other in Pennsylvania industries during October, with total non-agriculture employment in the commonwealth recorded at 3,677,900.

The State Departmnet of Labor and Industry said the work force in durable goods establishments rose and retail trade began its usual autumn climb, but seasonal losses were registered in service and construction groups, along with other scattered declines.

Total employment, however, was 488,300 higher than October 1949, when coal and steel strikes added to other unfavorable factors lowered the number of workers.

Medicine On Threshhold Of New Wonder Drugs

By FELIX COTTEN
(I. N. S. Staff Correspondent)

WASHINGTON, Dec. 1.—Medicine is on the threshold of new "wonder drug" discoveries which undoubtedly will cure quickly diseases which thus far have escaped penicillin and the other drugs developed in recent years.

This is the conclusion of Dr. Monroe J. Romansky, a consultant at the Army Medical Center in Washington. An associate professor of medicine at George Washington university, Romansky has contributed notably to the marked progress made in the field of antibiotics.

These are the new "wonder drugs" which have shoved the old sulfa drugs almost out of competition. Penicillin was the first. Then came streptomycin. Since World War II these new ones have been developed — chloromycetin, aureomycin and terramycin.

Gives His Views

Romansky gave International News Service his views on antibiotics at the Army Medical Center Antibiotics Laboratory, where he and several associates are busily working on improved techniques for the use of these drugs.

He pointed out that, as more antibiotics are developed, the problem of employing them to the maximum advantage increases.

Thus far, no antibiotics have been discovered which are effective against any except the larger viruses, such as parrot fever and a venereal disease known as tropical bubo. But Romansky said new ones probably will be developed which will knock out some of the filterable viruses.

"The field has just been scratched," he declared. "There probably will be new antibiotics which will do some of the things we cannot do now. New ones likely will be found which will replace streptomycin in the treatment of tuberculosis. Some of them may replace antibiotics now in use for other purposes."

At present, Romansky and his assistants are at work on combinations of the new drugs to combat a tendency of some disease germs to develop resistance against penicillin and streptomycin when used alone.

This is what actually takes place when a patient thinks he is becoming "immune" to effective treatment with one of these drugs. Romansky explained that instead of immunity by the individual, the bug develops a partial immunity to the drug.

He said that combinations of antibiotics offer promise of combating this tendency. For example, he added, penicillin and aureomycin show better results in some cases than penicillin used alone. Moreover, smaller doses may suffice when combinations are used.

Up to now, streptomycin is the only wonder drug which has proved effective against tuberculosis. But the germ has shown an ability to develop resistance against the drug. This is one of the major problems now encountered in the treatment of tuberculosis.

Each of the three antibiotics—chloromycetin, aureomycin and terramycin—have proved effective in the treatment of the so-called rickettsial diseases. These include the three forms of typhus and rocky mountain spotted fever.

The conquest of these diseases is a great triumph for medicine, since they include some of the worst scourges mankind has known.

In using chloromycetin for scrub typhus, army research doctors discovered accidentally that it would also knock out typhoid fever in a few days. Thus another dreaded disease is taking the count under the assault of antibiotics.

State-Owned Welfare Institutions Suffer Damage In Storms

HARRISBURG, Dec. 1.—(INS)—Damages ranging from $75,000 to $100,000 was suffered by the commonwealth's 39 state-owned welfare institutions during last week end's snows and floods.

State Welfare Secretary William C. Brown said, "Fortunately no lives are reported lost nor were persons injured, with the exception of one employe who suffered a heart attack."

The Pennsylvania state institution at Huntingdon worked closely with the area's emergency disaster committee, Brown said, to provide blankest, coffee and sandwiches for rescue crews and evacuese.

The Huntingdon institution also served as a storage point for hastily moved materials, Brown said.

Atomic Energy Development Plan Being Established

CHICAGO, Dec. 1.—(INS)—The Argonne National Laboratory today announced establishment of a joint training and atomic energy development program with E. I. DuPont De Nemours & Co. of Wilmington, Del.

Dr. W. H. Zinn, director of Argonne, said the program will bring DuPont scientific and technical specialists to the laboratory near Chicago for six to 18-month training periods.

Officials of the atomic energy commission, which operates Argonne, indicated that DuPont personnel will help design and construct production units for a major atomic energy plant to be located near Aiken, S. C.

Around Hollywood

By JAMES PADGITT
(International News Service Staff Correspondent)

HOLLYWOOD, Dec. 1.—"King Solomon's Mines" boasts charging elephants and a stampede of 7000 wild animals among other things, but director Andrew Marton insists that the biggest headache in making the jungle spectacle was keeping the clothes on the women extras.

Marton, a stickler for realism in his pictures, said that the only false note in the picture is the clothing worn by the native belles.

"They like to traipse around the jungle without a stitch as everyone knows," the director related. "But this would not do for American theater goers.

"We had to practically swear our lives away to the Johnston office that the jungle ladies would be fully clothed before the cameras."

Not Used To Clothes

Marton said that just before he shoved off for Africa for the four months of shooting on the June epic, he had a last-minute conference with producer Sam Zimbalist in the hopes that the picture would be 100 per cent authentic, even to the dress of the ladies.

But it was to no avail. The studio did not want to buck the Johnston office.

Consequently, when they filmed the native village and dance scenes the jungle belles were wrapped in sarong-like getups. The native gals all giggled and carried on and made remarks that even the interpreter would not translate.

During the shooting of the acrobatic dancing, Marton had to yell "cut!" time and again when clothing went awry on the Congo belles.

"The natives thought that we were all crazy," Marton said. "They probably had never seen such modesty before."

Marton says that the African sojourn for "Mines" was the experience of a lifetime, despite discomforts from time to time.

"The heat and the insects were terrible," the director said. "The worst thing though was the shots that we had to take—16 of them!"

On Uneasy Street

The one location site where the whole company was on edge was in the Murchison Falls area, where the dreaded tse-tse fly abounds. The shots of Deborah Kerr swimming about in a pool and Stewart Granger striding around stripped to the waist were filmed in the tse-tse fly zone. But the company completed the scenes without a hitch and with nary a bite.

Marton leaves Hollywood again for his next two pictures. He has "Constance Pedley", a story of the Canadian northwest mounted police, on tap to star Robert Taylor and Joel McCrea. It will be filmed in actual locales in Canada.

Marton also plans a story with a Tibetan theme. He has some 40,000 feet of background shots that he made when he was in Tibet in 1936.

Shenango Seniors To Present Play

The senior class of the Shenango high school has selected "And Never Been Kissed" as their class play for this year. This play, taken from the recent novel "Sweet Sixteen and Never Been Kissed" by A. Harris, is a story of teen-age frustration.

The heroine, Flory, played by Maryan Yarema, finds that in order to attract her ideal she must become an expert in algerbra. Just as she is about to succeed, she discovers that her dream boy, Charlie McCulley, enacted by William Baker, is moving to a larger city.

Following this, Flory becomes interested in the boy next door, Douglas, played by Dick Morgan. Finding it difficult to be interested in Douglas's missionary vocation, she enlists the aid of a few religious friends, Gertrude and Christine, portrayed by Donna Weeter and Rowena Allen.

When Douglas leaves for college Flory diverts her attention to a young cadet, Phillip, played by Ronald Stelter, who seems to be the choice of Flory's sister and mother, enacted by Betty Glasser and Joan Johnson, respectively. Flory needs additional persuasion from a love potion supplied by her friends, Millie and Gilmore, played by Carol Donley and Charles Morrone.

More complications are introduced by Flory's friend Betty Furguson, played by Phyrn Ketzel and also by a young widower, Mr. Peabody, enacted by Fred Duckworth. The play does not end with a complete and final happy reunion but the audience is left to conclude the story to their own satisfaction.

This adult treatment of adolescent problems makes this play one of the outstanding productions for teen-age groups. The cast realizes that professional casts have given this play many times, and are working hard to equal some of the fine productions already given this play.

Due to the recent storm, the play will be held December 15 instead of December 8 as previously planned. Further announcements will be made later. Anthony Venturella, school faculty member, is director of the play.

Claim New Record For Long Distance Video Transmission

MEXICO CITY, Dec. 1.—(INS)—Officials of Mexico City television station XHTV claimed a new record for long-distance video transmission from Latin America. They said one of the station's regular programs was picked up about 1,150 miles away in Hot Springs, Ark.

Station officials said they received a letter from James Williams of Hot Springs reporting clear reception of a news cast televised from Mexico City last Saturday.

Williams' letter said he picked up the program—"both video and voice without a trace of 'snow' or distortion"—over his receiver equipped with a booster and two stack antenna.

Williams said his antenna is mounted about 50 feet above the ground level.

XHTV's transmitter is located on top of Mexico City's tallest structure.

Mr. and Mrs. William J. Alexander and children, of Garfield avenue, who were forced out of their apartment during the recent fire in the Clawson home, are most appreciative of the help given them by the firemen and friends and neighbors who came to their assistance.

They were taken into neighbors' homes and given clothing to tide them over during the emergency, and will never forget these kindnesses, they stated today.

Will Not Press Guard Training

Large Number Of State Guardsmen Are Not Federalized

HARRISBURG, Dec. 1.—Activation and training of the state's home guard will not be pressed because of the large number of Pennsylvania National Guardsmen not federalized, according to state Adj. Gen. F. A. Weber... "We have more National Guardsmen left in home armories than most other states even though about 14,000 were federalized during the summer," Weber said... He estimated more than 10,000 guardsmen remained, including 8000 ground troops and 2500 members of the air National Guard. State guard training has not been discarded, according to the adjutant general... "We have requisitions in the department of the army for uniforms, arms and vehicles to outfit the state guard," Weber said... The equipment may come through by the first of the year... Later training may get underway... The 10th regiment, headquartered at Washington, has started token training, according to Weber... Two other regiments are located at Erie and Wilkes-Barre.

Not generally publicized is the fact that Governor-elect John S. Fine was one of the youngest men ever to take office as a county judge... At 33, Fine was appointed by former Governor Pinchot to the Luzerne county bench in January, 1927... In the spring primary, Fine won the nomination for a full term on the Republican, Democratic and Socialist tickets... He served on the county bench until 1949 when Governor Duff elevated him to the state superior court.

The Public Utility Commission's records show an increasing number of street car and bus companies, especially in the larger residential areas, to be fixing their sights on 10 cents cash fares... The commission usually has seen its way clear to granting increased revenue for public utilities under a state superior court ruling returned some years ago... At that time, the appellate court leaned toward a six per cent return on the valuation and the commission in most instances has used it as a guide... The costs of operations rise, the utilities seek higher cash fares and now bus and street car charges are the highest in the history of the transportation industry. ...The highest cash fare charged in Pennsylvania is the 15 cents which the Pittsburgh Railways company chivvies from its riders. ...The PUC has okayed a 12 cents cash fare for the Philadelphia Transportation company and may sanction a 10 cents fare for the Harrisburg Railways company.

Entries in the livestock competitions at the Pennsylvania farm show January 8-12 will set an all-time high, according to the state agriculture department... The listing of 1723 horses, beef and dairy cattle and swine and sheep surpasses all previous shows... The record of 1667 livestock entries was established last year... There are 291 beef cattle scheduled to be shown during the exposition including 130 head of 4-H club baby beeves.

Mayor Of Chinatown For U.S. Against Reds

NEW YORK, Dec. 1.—(INS)—The "mayor" of New York's Chinatown declared that its youth will fight alongside their fellow-Americans against the Chinese Communists.

Shavey Lee, spokesman for Manhattan's 33,000 Chinese, said, "at least 99 per cent of our people are anti-Communist. To them, Communists are Communists, whether they are Russian or Chinese".

Plan Bus Service On Eastern End Of State Turnpike

HARRISBURG, Dec. 1.—(INS)—Pennsylvania Greyhound Lines, Inc., today were authorized by the public utility commission to offer service via the 100-mile eastern extension of the Pennsylvania Turnpike.

Greyhound, which operates over the original turnpike link between Irwin and Middlesex, will run buses the length of the completed sections of the super-highway.

The PUC said the new rights will result in better and swifter bus transportation between Philadelphia, Harrisburg and Pittsburgh to the greater accommodation, convenience and safety of the public".

Greyhound plans to file a tariff effective December 1 increasing the $7.05 one way Pittsburgh-Philadelphia fare by 35 cents to cover toll charges, according to the commission.

WHAT COULD BE more surprising to Arthur Dakan (left), engineering lecturer at University of Southern California, Los Angeles, when he looked over a class and saw the man who captured him during World War II, Georg Munchmeier, former German tank officer. Evidently there are no hard feelings now as they shake hands. Dakan was shot down and Munchmeier got him, but Dakan hit Munchmeier over the head during an air raid and escaped. Munchmeier was brought to the U. S. by the State department to learn democracy in action. (International)

Clean Sidewalks, Request Of Mayor

"I request all people to clean off their sidewalks immediately in order that they will be passable for children when they journey to and from school," Mayor John F. Haven stated today.

Following a conference between Professor Frank Burton and school director Dr. W. Fulton Jackson several days ago, the mayor suggested that schools continue closed until Monday. They acquiesced.

However, there is several days remaining before classes are resumed and the mayor believes all sidewalks should be cleaned.

A city ordinance requires sidewalks to be cleaned of snow, and if they are not cleaned a fine can be imposed.

DENVER, Dec. 1.—(INS)—A young Pueblo, Colo., farm laborer was held today in Denver for immigration officials who accused him of smuggling Mexican Nationals into the United States.

Denver Immigration Officer E. R. Decker said charges were filed against 24-year-old Aurelio Ramirez after Nationals rounded up in Colorado, Wyoming and Nebraska claimed they paid him $25 each for his aid in crossing the Rio Grande.

Sharp Shift In Use Of Milk

Report Surplus Food No Problem

WASHINGTON, Dec. 1.—(INS)—The agriculture department says that a sharp shift has taken place the past half year in the use of milk—the shift toward greater fluid milk and cream consumption and less production of manufactured dairy products.

During the first half of 1950, the increase in milk production over a year earlier was divided evenly between fluid milk uses and manufactured dairy products.

In the past six months, however, with total milk production about the same as last year, the increase in consumption of fluid milk and cream has left a smaller quantity available for production of butter and cheese and other manufactured dairy products.

The annual rates in butter and cheese, particularly, the department says, have shown sharp declines since the early part of 1950.

The department says that this year consumption of fluid milk and cream in the U. S. will be slightly greater than in 1949. Per capita consumption by civilian will be about 390 pounds, compared with 385 pounds last year and the 14-year average of 340 pounds.

Senate Agriculture Chairman Thomas (D) Okla., says that the government's two-billion dollar stock of surplus food is "no problem" now because of the war.

The senator explained "it looks like we'll be able to get rid of it all—in fact we're lucky we have it."

He said supplies of butter, meat and dried milk purchased under the price-support program are being disposed of in large quantities both to the army and to other countries.

Thomas added that all of the canned meat in government storehouses has been sold except for 30 million pounds of beef which the army is taking "as fast as it can use it".

The agriculture chairman indicated he would like to see the army take some of the large stock of dried eggs still held by the government instead of going into the market to buy fresh eggs, but added:

"If I was in the army and had to go out and fight, I'd probably want the best food that could be bought, too."

The agriculture department today loses one of the oldest workers in point of years service ever to be employed by Uncle Sam.

He is Joseph H. Stevenson, in charge of illustrations in the departments office of information. Stevenson is putting his last day's work in after completing 52 years of continuous service to the government. He is 70 years old.

He began work with the government at Washington in 1899, and remembers seeing Theodore Roosevelt and William Howard Taft strolling around the agriculture departments' flower gardens.

One of Stevenson's early assignments was to film the flight made at Fort Myer by Orville Wright for the government in 1908.

TOOTH AND TOE NAIL

Granddad says that he has to work tooth and toe nail to get by. Buster wonders about that toe nail stuff.

The nails often cause a lot of trouble. Grandma wore shoes with pointed toes when she was young.

The nail on her big toe got pinched a little. She trimmed it with scissors but left a sharp tip at one corner. This tip grew into the flesh and she had an ingrown toe nail.

It is perhaps better to trim the nail on the big toes straight across so as to be sure that there is no sharp point to cause trouble.

It is better to have a hole in your sock than a sore toe.

Churches Plan Call To Prayer Service Sunday

This week has marked a great forward step in the working unity of the Christian forces of our country, as 27 Protestant and Eastern Orthodox communions met in Cleveland, O., from November 28-December 1. At that time the National Council of Churches of Christ in the United States of America was formed. More than 6,000 people, representing 130,000 churches and 26,000,000 members, attended the meeting in Cleveland.

Officers and leaders of the various denominations have been asked to observe Sunday, December 3, as a day of special prayer for the new council and of rededication to the united efforts of the churches.

The eight agencies, uniting to form the new council, are: the International Council of Religious Education, Foreign Missions Conference of North America, Missionary Education Movement of the U. S. and Canada, Federal Council of the Churches of Christ in America, Home Missions Council of North America, National Protestant Council on Higher Education, United Stewardship Council and the United Council of Church Women.

Purposes of Council

The council will help in a number of ways in promoting campaigns for evangelism and stewardship and by providing service to special groups such as migrants, share-croppers and new Americans. The new organization will also aid in sponsoring leadership institutes, training schools, youth programs and summer conferences.

United planning will aid home and foreign missions. The various churches will be linked in the joint observance of World-Wide Communion, Race Relations Sunday, Religious Education Week, World Day of Prayer, Reformation Sunday and the Lenten Fellowship of Prayer.

Extra Copies Of Budget Asked

HARRISBURG, Dev. 1.—(INS)—Preparation of 10 extra copies of departmental budget estimates for submittal to the general assembly was called for today by State Sen. Joseph JM Yosko (D) Northampton.

In a letter to State Budget Director Edward B. Logan, Yosko said that "it is impossible for 208 House and 50 Senate members to give the estimates through study" when only two copies are provided both houses.

"With the threat of new and additional taxes it is more important now than ever before that each senator and representative scrutinize minutely financial requests by each department, board and commission of the commonwealth," he said.

Technical arrangements have been completed with the telephone company so that those who do not order a program will be unable to see the film on their TV sets.

Storm Destroys Billboards

STATE COLLEGE, Pa., Dec. 1—(INS)—"It's an ill wind" et cetera has been quoted ad nauseum ever since the big blow. Just to accentuate the bromide, I wish to take sharp issue with this churlish pollyannaism.

For instance, the destruction of billboards in the recent hurricane is cataclysmic. As a result of a journey through the outlands of New Jersey and the heartland of Pennsylvania I can report that the hurricane toppled billboards like ninepins.

The end result is that the wretched traveler as he bowls along has absolutely nothing to look at except scenery, something which is mercifully hidden from gadabouts in most sections of the United States by a fortuitous arrangement of billboards at any scenic point apt to distract him from the highway.

As any reader can imagine, it was a very dull trip through the Alleghenies to this impenetrable mountain fastness with nothing to gander except the rich and rolling farm land of New Jersey and Pennsylvania and finally these over-extended mountains.

Billboards Flattened

From the manner in which billboards were flattened and scattered over the landscape it was almost as if the hurricane had provided nature and nature's God with a pointed form of criticism. But that is probably nothing but a fanciful thought on my part.

It was a great relief, as you can imagine, to get into the Pennsylvania Dutch country where the vast barns are ornamented and enlivened with two dazzling forms of art: hex signs and full-blown advertisements for eatin' tobacco.

Any experienced easterner can tell you precisely where the West begins—it is not just across the Hudson River, but at that point in rural Pennsylvania where the sides of barns are suddenly dedicated to the polychromatic praise of chewing tobacco.

But Temporal Reeds

Billboards proved themselves but temporal reeds in the big wind. But, thank goodness, the barns held steady and once a traveler reaches this bourne, he has something constructive to look at instead of those self-same hills and dales, farms and nature in general.

It was good, at last, to have something to read such as "take A Chaw, Just Like Paw," or the stirring admonition "Be A Quid Kid" or "A Little Chew Is Good For You" or the even more challenging exhortation "Why Be A Little Squirt When You Can Be A Big One With Mellow Mouthful Tobacco?"

This wholesale destruction of billboards plus an item on the financial pages of a newspaper I read a few hours ago has filled me with melancholy foreboding. The item said that television had made serious inroads into outdoor advertising.

Billboard advertising in this year of grace is off either two millions or two billions. I do not have a head for figures, in the first place, and the multiplication of naughts in financial statistics since I went to school has further addled me.

In Serious Trouble

Unfortunately, I have mislaid the paper, but either millions or billions, the billboard Dodge was in serious trouble—apparently—before the hurricane flattened it further.

It is just possible that this country is faced with the bleak prospect of a gradual decline and fall of billboard advertising, through a combination of nature and TV.

We must face, and face bravely, the hard fact that unless something is done quickly, the billboard may become one with the dodo.

What this country has done for potatoes, it can do for billboards. Write your congressman today! Demand a subsidy, lest the nation's highways be left naked and exposed to—perish forbid!—scenery!

Seeks To Get Custody Of Two Sons From Ex-Husband F. Tone

HOLLYWOOD, Dec. 1.—(INS)—Actress Jean Wallace, suing to wrest custody of her two sons from her ex-husband, Franchot Tone, is going to base her case partly on the woman Tone intends to marry next—blonde screen beauty Barbara Payton.

The opening move toward bringing Miss Payton into the case was taken yesterday when the actress was summoned to appear at a custody hearing to be held in the Santa Monica Superior Court December 8.

S. S. Hahan, Miss Wallace's attorney, said she was going to contend that the beauteous blonde is not a proper person to bring up the boys—Pascal Franchot, 7, and Thomas Jefferson Tone, 5.

The subpoena in the custody row was served on Miss Payton when she appeared as a defense witness in an unsavory Federal Court perjury trial—that of Stanley W. Adams, 38, a suspect in a $1,000,000 narcotics case.

Miss Payton testified Wednesday that Adams was at her apartment the afternoon and evening of February 28. Yesterday under cross examination she stuck to her story, although with less positiveness than previously.

Dinner Planned By Lutherans At Ellwood

The West Conference Brotherhood of the Pittsburgh Synod, United Lutheran church, will hold its annual Fall Rally in the form of a fellowship dinner, Wednesday evening, December 6, at 6:30 o'clock, at Trinity Lutheran church, Ellwood City.

Rev. John L. Reiner, pastor of Grace Lutheran church, Youngstown, O., will be the principal speaker. Pastor Reiner, formerly of Meadville, is relatively new to the men of the West Conference. He came to Youngstown during the summer, succeeding Dr. Jesse LeRoy Miller, who was pastor of Grace church for 53 years, and is now pastor emeritus of that church. Rev. Reiner brings with him an enviable record of accomplishments as pastor and speaker.

Two Officers In Hospital Here

Two police officers are confined in the Jameson Memorial hospital. Policeman Delbert Weiss was struck by an auto recently at Glass and Grant streets. He sustained an injured spine. He is to be placed in a cast. Detective John G. Moore suffered a heart attack Saturday and was taken to the hospital in a fire truck during the heavy snowfall.

EXAMINE DOCTORS

LISBON, O., Dec. 1.—The Columbiana County Draft Board today ordered six doctors—medical, dental and veterinarian—to report for pre-induction physical examinations Friday.

Among them is Dr. William A. McGarey, 31, of Wellsville, whose deferment has been petitioned by the city council, Kiwanis club and other civic groups.

How Many Tons Of Snow Dropped On Lawrence Co?

So you think you shoveled a lot of snow the past few days?

You probably did.

But supposing you had been forced to shovel all the snow that fell upon Lawrence county from Friday night to Tuesday afternoon?

How many tons do you imagine you would have shoveled? A thousand tons? A million? Ten million?

You're wrong brother. If you had started from Hillsville and shoveled to Ellwood City and from Brent to below Wampum you would have shoveled 122,781,120 tons. Or thereabouts.

Wanta bet

Local news was not too plentiful in The News office Wednesday afternoon and a couple of the office wizards (?) got to figuring how much weight the snow totalled. Everybody was given a chance to guess—the editor, sports writers, society writers, obit writers, printers and what have you.

Then the figuring started. First the area of Lawrence county, and roughly it was found the county is about 22 miles by 22 miles.

Do Some Figuring

A couple of engineers were asked to figure it. So was a certified public occountant and a lawyer. They filled enough sheets to provide work sheets for the building of a battleship.

And this was the joint and several results. That makes 484 square miles in the county if you follow us. There are 640 acres to a square mile (so the man said), which means 309,760 acres in the county.

According to the World Almanac one inch of rain fall upon an acre of land weighs 113.25 tons. Ten inches of snow equals one inch of rain or water to you. A survey of the county seems to indicate that 35 inches of snow fell over the county, which means 3.5 inches of the aforementioned moisture.

By this time we were dizzy but duty beckoned and we kpet on in a mental fog. You probably are by this time.

But to go on. That means there are 309,760 acres in Lawrence county, give or take a couple of hundred acres if you want to. Or a couple of thousand for that matter.

Referring to the World Almanac we find it says that 10 inches of snow means one inch of water, and remembering that 35 inches fell here, that means 3.5 inches of water over 309,760 acres. That's 396,374 tons per acre.

That means 122,781,120 tons of moisture in the form of snow—if you're still listening.

122,781,120 Tons

Now that we have 122,781,120 tons of snow—what to do with it?

You can't put it in your old razor blade box, nor yet in the trash burner in the back yard.

Supposing we load it into coal cars and ship it some where. Honolulu, or Pago Pago, or Eritrea.

For this we took the word of a retired railroader who figured that 45 tons of snow would fill a big gondola. The 122,781,120 tons of snow would fill 2,728,469 gondolas and now we have them filled we have to do something with them.

From coupling to coupling gondolas are about 50 feet long and the result is we have a freight train 25,838 miles long without an engine.

The distance around the world at the equator is about 25,000 miles which means that the Lawrence county train load of snow would go around the world and still have a lot of cars left over.

That's a lot of snow brother. Fact is we had more percipitation of moisture in the storm here than we had in any one of the 10 months in Lawrence county in 1949. The average precipitation for a year in these parts is 36 inches of moisture in the form of water or rain. From Friday night to Tuesday we had 3.5 inches which will give you a rough idea.

So you shoveled a lot of snow? But what if you had to shovel all that fell in Lawrence county. Starting at the age of 17 and working 12 hours a day and shoveling so many pounds per so many minutes you would be a lot older when you were finished. But that's a problem for somebody else to figure out.

SURPLUS OF FUNDS

HARRISBURG, Dec. 1.—(INS)—A surplus of campaign funds was listed by Clearfield and Potter county Republican committees in reports to the state elections bureau on general election costs.

The Clearfield report listed receipts of $950 and the expenditures totaling $710 while the Potter statement disclosed an income of $2,838—including $2,275 from the GOP state committee—and expenditures of $2,553.

The per capita share of the interest on 1949 national debt was $36.33.

Help From State In Sewage Disposal Plants Is Likely

MIAMI BEACH, Fla., Dec. 1.—(INS)—Gov.-elect John S. Fine was reported today to be considering state loans and possibly outright grants to help Pennsylvania communities construct sewage-disposal plants.

Fine said he desired to continue the Duff administration's anti-pollution drive without excessive financial burden to local governments. He stated:

"We will proceed with this phase of the state's clean streams program as rapidly as the financial condition of the state and the affected municipalities permits."

The governor-elect declined, to discuss specific financing methods to be used to push through the commonwealth's multi-million dollar stream program.

Fine is also looking at the stream clearance program from the recreational viewpoint.

He plans to meet representatives of the Pennsylvania Federation of Sportsmen's clubs, members of the legislature, and game commission affiliates in Harrisburg next Wednesday.

Fine announced that he would retain Brig. Gen. Richard K. Mellon, of Pittsburgh, as state director of civil defense.

"General Mellon is doing an excellent job," he said. "My only problem might be in convincing him that he should continue in his present capacity."

President Can Order Use Of Atomic Bomb

WASHINGTON, Dec. 1.—(INS)—President Truman gets his authority to order use of the atomic bomb from a provision in the Atomic Energy Act.

Section Six of the atomic law includes this provision:

"The president from time to time may direct the (atomic) commission (1) to deliver such quantities of fissionable materials or weapons to the armed forces for such use as he deems necessary in the interest of national defense or (2) to authorize the armed forces to manufacture, produce or acquire any equipment or device utilizing fissionable material or atomic energy as a military weapon".

A-Bomb Attack Could Be Made On Hour's Notice

WASHINGTON, Dec. 1.—(INS)—Defense officials today promised instant compliance if President Truman authorizes us of the Atomic bomb against the Chinese Reds and Gen. MacArthur orders an attack with the fearful weapon.

Atomic warfare specialists said an attack could be unleashed "on an hour's notice" but tightest secrecy shrouded the possible origin of such a mission.

Some military observers believe that A-bombs ready for loading aboard giant warplanes are stored within 300 or 400 miles of the Korean war zone.

Atomic Stockpiles

These observers point out that atomic stockpiles may well have been created at U. S. bases in Japan or on Okinawa, the hard-won island which is regarded as of inestimable value in the American security picture.

It also was suggested that Guam is a logical base from which to launch a devastating Atomic strike.

Actual locations of A-bomb stockpile sites and possible take-off points for Atomic attack planes are classified as military secrets of the gravest nature.

Military men agreed that should an A-mission be ordered it probably would be a blow delivered without warning, though the possibility was not ruled out that the Reds would be given an ultimatum to halt their aggression in Korea or prepare for Atomic destruction.

GI FINDS WORTHLESS RED SOUVENIR

WAR BOOTY with questionable market value among U.N. troops in Korea is inspected by a GI. The undamaged pictures of Stalin and Red Korean Premier Kim Il Sung were left behind in the debris of the Communist headquarters when Hagaru-Ri defenders fled. (International)

Budget Secretary To Be Reappointed

MIAMI BEACH, Fla., Dc. 1.—(INS)—Gov.-elect John S. Fine has named the seventh member of his Pennsylvania cabinet with the reappointment of Edward B. Logan as budget secretary.

Logan, who receives $9,600 annually, has served under four governors—the late Gifford Pinchot, Arthur H. James, Edward Martin and James H. Duff.

He was out of the state service during the administration of Democratic Gov. George H. Earle. During the James regime, he served as secretary of revenue for a brief period.

Atomic Medicine Training For Nurses

HARRISBURG, Dec. 1.—(INS)—State Civil Defense Director Alton C. Miller today announced plans for an intensive atomic medicine training program for professional nurses.

The program is designed to provide Pennsylvania with a strategically located and fully trained corps of 2,000 of the state's 60,000 nurses for emergency in case of enemy attack.

Five nurses who have completed training at Rochester University in the nursing aspects of atomic medicine will handle preliminary details, Miller said.

Tentative plans, he said, are for each of the five to train 20 nurses each of whom will instruct another 20 volunteers.

The cadre of nurses is composed of Wilda Camery, of Pittsburgh; Lois B. Goodman, of Philadelphia; Ruth D. Abbott, of Philadelphia; Mrs. Lucille Marsh, of Mercer; and Delores H. Forman, of Harrisburg.

All-Time Record Price Is Paid For Champion Steer

CHICAGO, Dec. 1.—(INS)—An all-time record price of $12 a pound was paid at auction Thursday for "big spring special" the sleek Hereford grand champion steer of the International Livestock Exposition.

Buyer of the prize winning steer was the Albert Pick Corp., owners of a nationwide hotel chain.

The price topped by 50 cents last year's record-breaking $11.50 paid for "Judge Roy Bean," shown by the Pecos County, Texas 4-H Club. Last year's champ went to the Dearborn Motor Co., Detroit.

Most interested spectator at today's sale was Lloyd Robinson, 19, of Big Spring, Tex., who bought "big spring special" a year ago for $140 and now will get $12,300 for the squat, burly 1,025-pound steer.

In addition to the sale price, Lloyd walked off with winnings amounting to $1,150.

Mixed Congress Reaction On Possible A-Bomb Use

WASHINGTON, Dec. 1.—(INS)—Members of Congress greeted President Truman's grim announcement that he is considering use of the Atomic bomb against the Chinese Reds with mixed reaction ranging from flat approval to pleas for a further study of the satuation.

Senate Republican floor leader Wherry, of Neb., said he is "for use of the force the military considers necessary to stop the massacre of our troops in Korea."

But Sen. George (D) Ga., finance committee chairman, declared that use of the A-bomb "means war", and that the question should be decided by the military.

Other comment was:

Sen. Milliken (R) Colo.: "The Atomic bomb should not be used unless there is dire necessity. We shouldn't use it impetuously."

Sen. Brewster (R) Me.: "We should use the bomb on Chinese troop concentrations and ammunition dumps. Half a dozen Atom bombs could save a thousand American lives.

"We might as well have a showdown now. I don't think Russia has the bomb, myself."

Can't Temporize

Sen. O'Mahoney (D) Wyo.: "I am delighted at the position the president has taken. We can't afford to temporize further with Soviet Russia and her Red puppets."

O'Mahoney was asked whether he was suggesting that the use of the bomb should be considered against Soviet Russia as well as the Chinese Communists. He replied:

"I do. Soviet Russia is the author. The Chinese puppets are the agents."

Sen. McKellar (D) Tenn.: "I approve of winning the war—if it takes that to win the war, well..."

Sen. McCarthy (R) Wis.: "We should use every weapon we've got—including the Atom bomb. You can't kill men delicately."

Sen. Young (R) N. D.: "I don't see how you can use the bomb until you get 100,000 American soldiers and civilians out of Germany. Russia would move immediately there. Besides, there aren't any good objectives in China that would destroy the Reds militarily."

Horst To Be Renamed Agriculture Secretary By Gov.-Elect Fine

MIAMI BEACH, Fla., Dec. 1.—(INS)—John S. Fine, Pennsylvania's governor-elect, announced that he will reappoint Miles Horst as state secretary of agriculture.

Horst, of Lebanon, already has served in the cabinet post under Gov. James H. Duff and former Gov. Edward Martin. He is the sixth cabinet member to be announced for the new chief executive's official family.

Fine lauded Horst on the administration of his department and said the cabinet member "merits a further opportunity to advance this very important segment in the state's economy."

Previous cabinet appointments announced by the incoming governor were Adjutant General Frank A. Weber, Welfare Secretary William C. Brown, Revenue Secretary Otto F. Messner, Highways Secretary Ray F. Smock, and Commerce Secretary Andrew J. Sordoni. All but Sordoni are reappointments.

This bore out his campaign statements that he would continue with Governor Duff's programs and amplify them.

In line with this, Fine was reported to be considering state loans and possibly outright grants to help communities construct sewage-disposal plants.

POSTPONE SPEECH CLINIC

PITTSBURGH, Dec. 1.—(INS)—The University of Pittsburgh postponed indefinitely its annual high school speech clinic scheduled for Saturday. The event usually draws many western Pennsylvania high school debaters.

Miss Eleanor Blake is spending some time at the home of her grandmother, Mrs. J. R. Dodds. Mrs. Dodds, who has not been very well for some time, was not able to get a doctor or medicine until Tuesday night, when, after one of the daughters and the neiighbors did a lot of phoning to the road supervisor and the American Legion of Mercer, the latter finally got a truck from New Wilmington to accompany a doctor out to the home of Paul Johnson, who with the truck driver walked up through the deep snow to the Dodds home, where they got the team and sled and came back and took the doctor up. After Mr. Dodds finished his work he brought them back to the Johnson home about 10 p. m.

Report Fine Will Drop As Least Eight Of Duff's Cabinet

MIAMI BEACH, Fla., Dec. 1.—(INS)—Gov.-Elect John S. Fine of Pennsylvania was reported today to have decided to drop at least eight members of the Duff administration cabinet.

Fine already has re-appointed seven of Duff's department chiefs, but sources close to the incoming governor said indications point to the dropping of eight other cabinet officials.

According to the reports, there will be new bosses in the departments of mines, banking, health, public assistance, forests and waters, property and supplies, labor and industry, and justice.

Slated To Go

Slated to go are the following Duff cabinet members, according to the reports from Fine's vacation headquarters:

Secretaries of Health Norris W. Vaux, Forests and Waters Milo F. Draemel, Mines Richard Maize, Banking D. Emmert Brumbaugh, Public Assistance Frank A. Robbins, Property and Supplies Chester M. Woolworth, Labor and Industry William H. Chestnut and Attorney General Charles J. Margiotti.

Fine reportedly has not made up his mind about the status of Commonwealth Secretary Gene D. Smith, Insurance Commissioner Artemas C. Leslie, Superintendent of Public Instruction Francis B. Haas and State Police Commissioner C. M. Wilhelm.

It is probable, however, that Wilhelm and Haas have good prospects of remaining. Smith likely will be given a different job to make way for a woman in the cabinet.

EXPECT ATTACK ON PYONGYANG BY RED FORCES

as to require "desperate measures"—a hint that the atom bomb may not have to be used in Korea.

Gen. Willoughby disclosed that Red China now has 300,000 troops in Korea and along Manchuria's Yalu river border, across which Chinese reinforcements are coming south every night.

Willoughby said another 550,000 Chinese troops are assembled farther north in Manchuria for a total strength of 850,000 in and near the Korean war theater.

Take Over Front

He revealed that the Chinese forces, under the command of the famed Red Gen. Lin Piao, now have taken over the entire Communist front in North Korea.

At least 200,000 Chinese Reds were in action or motion in northwest Korea. They started streaming across the lower Chongchon in force Friday to move south against the U. S. Eighth Army's American, British and other Allied troops established along a new defense line some 25 miles above Pyongyang.

A Friday night dispatch from Eighth Army Headquarters said waves of American planes were blasting and strafing these enemy forces. The airmen were credited with killing at least 1,500 Chinese Reds in the first hours of this action.

But before the day was over, the Chinese had thrust to within 20 miles of the new positions in which the Eighth Army troops had dug in following their 40-mile retreat from the north.

Many Are Trapped

A few thousand UN troops were reported still trying to get back to the defense line above Pyongyang and many of them were trapped by infiltrating Reds. A Turkish brigade, originally about 8,000 troops, was declared to have been destroyed as a fighting unit.

But the bulk of Lt. Gen. Walton H. Walker's main Eighth Army units apparently had escaped envelopment and reached the Pyongyang defense line. Gen. Willoughby said Walker's four American divisions—the 24th, 25th and Second Infantry and the First Cavalry—were "still intact."

The vital Pyongyang-Wonsan road stretching across Korea's "waist" was under enemy attack at Songchon and Tongyang, respectively 20 miles northeast of Pyongyang and 30 miles west of Wonsan.

The main highway from the South Korean capital of Seoul to Pyongyang was attacked by a 1,200-man Red force near Sibyon, 55 miles north of Seoul and 70 miles southeast of Pyongyang.

Broke Off Engagement

Gen. MacArthur announced in a late Friday communique that the British Commonwealth 29th Brigade resisted this thrust and then the enemy "suddenly broke off the engagement after suffering numerous casualties."

From the snow-covered northeast front, a Friday night International News Service field dispatch reported that troops of the U. S. First Marine and the Army Seventh Divisions were battling to reopen the important supply road to the Changjin reservoir.

The Chinese had slashed this 46-mile road leading north from Hamhung at several points, cutting off a number of marine and army units.

From Yudam, on the reservior's west side 46 miles northwest of Hamhung, a tank-led leatherneck column counter-attacked southward in an effort to break out of enemy encirclement. They forced south to reach Hagaru, nine miles southeast of Yudam and situated on the south side of the Changjin reservoir.

Attempt To Break Through

American Seventh Division troops sumultaneously counter-attacked down the reservoir's east side in an attempt to break through Red road blocks and reach Hagaru.

The field dispatch said the Americans were "reported making progress against swarms of harassing enemy firing from high ground on both sides of the roads."

Hagaru itself was cut off by units of an 80,000-man Chinese Army operating in the northeast. So was Kotori, seven miles south of Hagaru. A relief column of American Marines and Army troops drove north from Hamhung in an attempt to reach Kotori and help clear the vital Hamhung-Hagaru road.

Lighter Side Of Big Snow Aftermath

The snow storm did have its lighter side and all wasn't total disaster. Here Carl Sansone, 13 year old son of Mrs. Eleanor Sansone, 428 Croton avenue, puts the finishing touches on one of two snowmen he made Thursday in the front yard. The snowman not seen in this picture is a junior edition of the one shown here. It is a little mite only about two foot high.

Former Headmaster Of Academy Loses Appeal For Freedom

PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 1.—(INS)—George W. Balles, former headmaster of the defunct Warminster Academy, lost an appeal today to win freedom from prison where he is serving a maximum of five years for the rape of a 12-year-old girl student.

Balles' petition for a habeas corpus to gain release from Eastern penitentiary was denied by Quarter Sessions Judge Charles L. Guerin.

Judge Guerin declared in his opinion that his court was "without authority to review the propriety of the state parole board in denying Balles a parole after expiration of his minimum sentence (two and one-half years)."

"The petitioner (Balles) is in legal custody under a valid sentence," Judge Guerin said, "and has no right to a habeas corpus."

The jurist said he had weighed the opposition of the parole board in reaching his decision.

The board's secretary, J. M. Des Rochers, told Judge Guerin in a letter that a parole was denied Balles because his release "would be against the public interest."

Aged Woman Burns To Death In Home

NEWPORT, Pa., Dec. 1.—(INS)—An 83-year-old Newport woman burned to death today before the eyes of her invalid husband who was helpless to aid.

Police said Mrs. William George's clothes caught fire when she lit a match to kerosene-soaked wood in a small stove.

Neighbors, hearing her screams, ran to the house but had to wait until George managed to unlock the door.

Efforts to smother the woman's flaming clothes failed and the Newport fire company had to be called before the women's blazing garments were extinguished.

REVEALS 300,000 CHINESE RED TROOPS IN KOREA

timated that use of the atom bomb in Korea may not be deemed necessary.

The general declined to state whether it will prove necessary to carry the war to China's Manchuria itself in order to defeat the Communist hordes now surging down through North Korea from the Yalu river border.

The intelligence chief advised newsmen to "mark time" in appraising the critical nature of the situation on the Korean front.

He pointed out that Lt. Gen. Walton H. Walkers' Eighth Army in Northwest Korea, where some 200,000 Chinese troops have smashed the allied Chongchon river line, has four American army divisions.

"These are still good divisions and intact," Willoughby said.

The general shrugged off a question as to whether the Chinese could push the United Nations forces off the entire Korean peninsula.

"You can't push British and American regulars around like that," he exclaimed.

300,000 Chinese Troops

Willoughby, the man in charge of obtaining vital military information for MacArthur's supreme command, said 300,000 Chinese Red troops now are either committed in Korea or moving into that war-torn land across the Yalu river from Manchuria.

He said these were Chinese "regulars" belonging to the huge army under the command of the famed Chinese Communist General Lin Piao.

Gen. Lin may be in personal command of his seasoned troops now attacking in North Korea, Willoughby said. He added that his G-2 (intelligence service) now is engaged in an intensive study of the Red general's record in order to learn about his tactics.

"His record is very good—unfortunately," commented Willoughby.

The intelligence director told the newsmen that the Chinese are still pushing reinforcements across the Yalu into Korea each night. He related:

"Only yesterday truck columns were on the Sinuiju road (northwest of Yyongyang) at night to a length of 20 miles—reinforcements for the present combat area."

Chinese Take Over Front

Willoughby disclosed that the Chinese have taken over the entire Communist front and that the North Koreans are being reorganized and re-equipped far in the rear—in the Manpojin sector.

He cited a report given under interrogation by a captured North Korean who said a Chinese officer as saying that the reconstituted North Korean forces would then be given the job of pushing below the 38th all the way through South Korea. It was the North Korean invasion of South Korea last June 25th that touched off the present war.

Willoughby stressed that as the Communist hordes move south their supply lines become longer, giving allied air power more opportunity for interdiction.

State Police Holding Men

Quartet Detained For Investigation

State Police are questioning four men today who were arrested Thursday on the Perry Highway between Harlansburg and Leesburg. One of the men allegedly wore a holster-revolver. Some tools said to have been found in their possession could be used in opening safe, the report stated. Two of the men are held in the city jail, and the others, elsewhere.

It is said a charge of violating the Firearms Act will be put against the man who wore the holster-revolver.

It is reported two men were in an auto, and two others were in a truck, which followed the auto, toward Pittsburgh.

The State Police were checking traffic and it is reported "did not like the looks of the men," began questioning them in a beverage parlor, and the revolver was found on one of the men.

Fire Loss At State College Is $10,000

STATE COLLEGE, Pa., Dec. 1.—(INS)—Pennsylvania State college officials counted up a $10,000 loss today in a fire which destroyed scientific equipment and furnishings in the astronomy laboratory.

Firemen said the cause of the blaze is undetermined but believe it started in electrical conduits in the sub-basement. The fire which occurred yesterday was discovered by Physics Professor Henry L. Yeagley who said the building was used for student research.

Rumors Circulate Of Important Moscow Statement

PARIS, Dec. 1—(INS)—Rumors circulated in the corridors of the French National Assembly today that an "important Moscow announcement" is expected tonight.

There was no indication of its nature but all speculation centered around President Truman's announcement regarding possible use of the atom bomb in the Korean war.

CAIRO—Grain was the principal crop of Egypt until the 19th century when cotton growing took first place.

Browder Jailed In Failure To Produce Bail For Contempt

WASHINGTON, Dec. 1.—(INS)—Federal Judge Edward Curran today remanded former Communist party leader Earl Browder to jail when he was unable to produce $1,500 bail on contempt of congress charges.

Browder refused to plead on the contempt charges arising from his refusal to answer questions of the senate committee, headed by Sen. Tydings (D) Md., which investigated Communism in the government.

The one-time Red leader declared the indictment was invalid and Judge Curran gave him until December 26 to file motions setting forth his reasons for so thinking.

Browder, who indicated he will act as his own lawyer, arrived in court with an overnight bag in apparent anticipation of being sent to jail.

MULCH STRAWBERRIES TO PREVENT DAMAGE

For winter protection be sure to mulch the strawberry patch. When the ground freezes and steady cold weather is established the mulch can be applied.

In the meantime, the straw can be placed in piles along the side of the patch, where it will soak up some moisture and not be so likely to blow off when put on the patch.

The best kind of straw to use is wheat straw. Rye straw and buckwheat straw are not considered so good as wheat straw, but they are fair substitutes. Old timothy hay, oats straw, and tree leaves may be better than no covering at all, but they are last choice because of their tendency to pack down and smother the plants. Timothy hay also may carry enough seed to create a weed nuisance next spring or the following year, if the strawberry bed is carried over for another year.

Chief value of the straw mulch is in preventing alternate thawing and freezing which heaves the plants out of the ground. In the spring the mulch delays growth and blossoming until the danger of frost damage is past.

USE ATTIC FOR PLAY ROOM OR APARTMENT

An attic may be converted into an extra bedroom, a play room for the children, or even a small apartment.

If one plans to remodel the attic into an apartment, a living-sleeping room, kitchen, and bath will be needed. To simplify plumbing changes, place the third floor bath directly over the bathroom on the second floor. A space 5 by 5 feet is the minimum area needed for the tub, toilet, and wash bowl. Local building codes usually require a window or vent in the bathroom.

For more windows, build a long, shallow dormer using basement sash. Then one will not have to tamper with the roof rafters. Use the space below the rafters inside for built-in furniture or a day bed placed lengthwise to the wall. Folding screens will provide privacy. Screens are available in various styles and materials.

Fire resistant insulation under the roof will make the attic apartment comfortable in winter and summer. After thorough insulation put up the wall partitions. Various types of wall boarding that has been painted or covered with a plaster coat. Select light colored wall boarding to make the most of the light available in the attic.

EGGS AS A FOOD

Eggs are one of the best tissue building foods, containing protein of high quality. The yolk is an excellent source of iron. Eggs are rich in vitamin A and contain thiamin, riboflavin, and vitamin D.

USE QUICK OVEN MEALS FOR AUTUMN TREAT

A file of quick and easy menus for oven meals is good to have on hand during pre-holiday season.

For successful oven meals, select foods that require the same temperature and baking time. Choose flavors that go well together and foods that have contrasting colors. Since baked foods are likely to be similar in texture, a crisp salad or relishes are needed to make a successful meal.

Timing is important in planning an oven meal. If you want to set the timer and leave the kitchen, plan to use foods that have the same baking time. Remember that frozen green vegetables lend themselves to baking better than fresh vegetables.

These menus will give quick, good-to-eat oven meals:

Corned Beef Casserole
potatoes, brussels sprouts green salad
spoon corn bread apple crisp
milk—coffee
(baking time 45 minutes, 350°F.)

Sausage and Macaroni Casserole baked frozen broccoli carrot and celery sticks whole wheat bread—butter baked apples
milk—coffee
(baking time 45 minutes, 350°F.)

Acorn Squash Stuffed With Sausage baked frozen green beans
pepper cabbage
French bread—butter
crisp raw apples with cheese
milk—coffee
(baking time 1 hour, 350°F.)

Ham Loaf
sweet potatoes in Jackets tossed green salad
fresh pears baked with orange marmalade coffee—milk
(baking time 1 hour, 375°F.—add pears the last half hour.)

CHILDREN'S CLOTHING

Select preshrunk materials, fast to light and laundering or cleaning for a child's clothes. Firm, close weaves will usually wear and launder best. Lightweight, flexible fabrics, rather than those that are heavy or stiff, are less tiring to a child. Prints, plaids, stripes, and checks should be small and in scale with the child's size.

SENDING CHRISTMAS CARDS TO BEREAVED

"I have a close friend who has been in mourning for six weeks. Would it be improper for me to send her a Christmas card? Also is it incorrect for those in mourning to send Christmas cards?"

Answer: Christmas cards may, with absolute propriety, be send to those in mourning. There should, however, be no wish for joy or merriment but rather a wish for happiness and hope for the coming year . . . something perhaps with a religious motif.

Those in mourning may, if they wish, send out Christmas cards. On the contrary, if they do not feel so inclined, they need not bother. Everyone will understand and no one will feel slighted by this omission of a usual custom.

Of course, those who have suffered a close family bereavement just prior to the holidays by the death of a parent, sister, brother or spouse, would probably not feel inclined to send cards or give presents. It would seem cold and odd, indeed, if they disregarded their grief to the extent of taking an active interest in the gaiety of the holiday season.

When people are really grief-stricken, their minds are in no condition to concentrate on such things—that is the meaning of real mourning.

Question: I am invited to a church wedding and reception immediately after. When should I present my gift—before the reception or during the reception?

Answer: Send it, addressed to the bride, as soon as possible after receipt of the invitation. Do not take it along with you to the wedding.

The Spirit of Service

Among telephone men and women, the spirit of service is tradition . . . and more.

It's the sense of responsibility that makes them spurn personal inconvenience and danger to get to work, and that keeps them on the job with little thought for their own safety.

It's the loyalty to a cause that, in time of trouble, brings former employees back to work to offer their help.

It's the unified determination of telephone men and women to see to it that calls go through . . . come what may . . . for they know how vital any call could be.

The great storm that struck much of Pennsylvania put all this to the test again . . . and again the test was met.

Telephone women throughout the state somehow found their ways to their posts, despite the storm. In Pittsburgh, with transportation completely paralyzed, one of them even plodded eight miles through deepening snow to get to her job.

All over the state, telephone men, braving hurricane winds, rain, sleet, snow, and floods, worked round the clock to repair lines felled by trees and to restore the service.

It is of actions like this that the spirit of service is made.

Winter Business Outlook Is Discussed By Babson

By ROGER W. BABSON
(Copyright—1950—Publishers Financial Bureau, Inc.)

BABSON PARK, Mass., Dec. 1.—The prospect of higher taxes and credit restrictions is casting a shadow over the business outlook for the coming winter. These spply to automobiles, refrigerators and television sets; but not as to most consumer items.

Hasty Forecasting Now Dangerous

During recent months we know that the output of industry has exceeded consumption. Automobiles and trucks have been produced at the unprecedented rate of ten million per year; over 20% of all units now on the road. The recent rate of home construction has exceeded any pre- [illegible] annual output by over 50%. Scare buying lifted the sale of household appliances to unprecedented heights during the summer.

Roger W Babson

However, we find already that reaction has set in, with lumber prices breaking during the last few weeks. The sales of many consumer items are back to pre-June levels. New construction is currently off sharply. We know that the easy credit policies of the federal government agencies have artificially stimulated home building. With the tightening up of credit controls further cut-backs will continue. Recent increases in bank loans outstanding have been largely siphoned off into consumer credit expansion. This caused a tremendous boom in the purchase of consumer goods during recent months. Much stricter credit regulations will certainly have a depressing effect on the inflationary spiral. Now is no time to buy everything in sight.

Outlook For Defense Spending

Defense orders in 1951 will undoubtedly maintain high employment, at least during the coming winter. Due to the allocation of certain materials in short supply being funneled into defense activities, business profits will not be uniformly good. Dislocations will take place. This will create shortages of materials throughout the nation which can have an adverse effect on the normal flow of business and profits. Government bureaucrats do queer things.

Investors who search for an inflation hedge in common stocks should watch their step. The Dow-Jones industrial stock average is higher than it has been for the last 20 years. More burdensome taxes during 1951 will have an adverse effect on earnings. Many companies fully converted from civilian to military production will have their manufacturing margins cut. War stocks are certainly at at their peak. Don't forget what happened during the renegotiation period of 1946-47.

Diversify Your Investments

Government policy makers are now pouring water over the inflationary fire on which they were dumping gasoline only a short time ago. This vacillating policy requires careful diversification of investment funds during the coming winter. Have less than half of the total funds in common stocks. For this half buy only securities of companies that make some money both during good times and bad times; and where the management is of high character. Buy no bonds except convertible bonds. Have the other half of your investment funds in cash, savings accounts, government bonds, etc., awaiting more favorable buying opportunities later.

Political Outlook

No one in this world has gotten something for nothing for any great length of time. I should, therefore, like to point out that we are heading for some very serious trouble in this country unless employees improve their output to compensate for increases in wage rates; otherwise, future increases in wages will prove to be an illusion. Subsidies given one section mean taking wealth away from another section. In the long run employers are only cutting their own throats by charging too high prices.

Honest values for goods and services should be the aim of us all. Regimentation is not the answer to our troubles. The planners, whether they be in Washington, London or Moscow, never create wealth—all they do is to redistribute the fruits of other people's labor. This is not treating one's neighbors fairly. Basically what really counts most of all is how we people treat one another. Only through an economy based on the teachings of Jesus can we hope to maintain and improve our splendid standard of living.

Cannot Flee From Production Centers In Atomic Bombing

CHICAGO, Dec. 1.—(INS)—United States civilians were warned today that they will not be permitted to flee from strategic production centers in the event of atomic bombing.

James J. Wadsworth, acting director of the national safety resources board's civil defense office, told the American Welfare association that it is "time to get tough with ourselves over this question of what may happen if we are attacked."

Wadsworth deplored what he termed a "take-to-the-hill mentality" which visualized "an attack here by an enemy as the signal for a sort of group vacation on the part of thousands of city dwellers."

"If and when the chips are down," Wadsworth said, "every strategic target area in America will be manned and fought with every bit of human vigor and every scrap of material resource we have. Every community must be defended to the utmost.

"For the first time since the Indian wars every soldier and every citizen—man, woman and child—will be equal in danger and personal responsibility.

"There will be no retreat from production lines. There will be on voluntary surrender of a single machine or a single home that might help our armed forces to wage war."

State V.F.W. Is Pushing U.M.T.

HARRISBURG, Dec. 1.—(INS)—Pennsylvania's Veterans of Foreign Wars today pressed the commonwealth's congressional delegation to seek adoption of universal military training "within the quickest possible time."

In letters to the delegation, state commander Louis G. Feldmann said that "we need enormous reserves of trained manpower to militarily protect ourselves from Soviet Russia's determination to destroy us."

Letters also were sent to President Truman, Vice President Barkley and the Senate leadership.

Feldmann claimed America already has "countless and perhaps needless casualties in Korea simply because we were again unprepared in manpower to fulfil our obligations."

"So long as we remain weak in manpower, Communists everywhere can destroy us by gradual depletion of our resources, or by direct war." The commander asserted. "It is already past the time when members of Congress should have removed their heads from the sand and faced boldly as statesmen, not as politicians, the evendent facts of our impending danger."

Feldmann said the VFW demanded that "our Pennsylvania delegation in Congress stop playing with national defense and our security and heed the word of General MacArthur that 'we are facing a new war' in Korea.

THE FAMILY SCRAPBOOK

By DR. ERNEST G. OSBORNE

Child's Eye View

We can't be sure just how things appear to a very small child but we can guess. And to point this up, a clever photographer, with a child psychologist, has snapped pictures of people and other objects as a small child must see them. He kept his camera close to the floor, or at the child's eye level.

At times, a youngster must seem pretty much overwhelmed. Not only do people tower over him, but they also must always seem to be telling him what to do and what not to do.

Much of this sort of thing can be avoided. We can try to sense how the child may be feeling when we grownups shout, pull and push and otherwise throw our weight around.

It's gratifying to see adults bring themselves down to the child's level when talking to him. And the understanding person may not only get down to the eye level, but should speak with the child naturally. This means the grown-up should not manifest any condescension, should avoid all baby talk, and should show in interest in the things that occupy a child's mind.

The method of appointment includes competitive, qualifying examinations before the U. S. Civil Service Sommission. There will be one principal and three alternates. Appointments will be made on the results of the examinations. No personal interviews or letter of recommendation are necessary.

Preliminary mental tests are for the designation of the candidates and not for their admission to the academies. Examinations will be conducted in the three counties on January 15, 1951. All applicants desiring to compete must notify Congressman Graham, room 1628, New Office building, Washington, D. C., not later than December 15, 1950. Hospital Receives $3,000,000 From Blue Cross For Patients

PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 1.—The University of Pennsylvania hospital became the first hospital to receive $3,000,000 from Blue Cross for the care of subscriber-patients, it was announced today by Thomas S. Gates, president of the board of directors of the Associated Hospital Service of Philadelphia.

A September payment of $64,110.65 for the care of 711 subscribers raised the University of Pennsylvania hospital's total since 1938 to $3,034,958.75.

The payment for September to all hospitals totaled $1,193,646 for the care of 17,628 subscribers. Of this amount, $1,048,257 went to the 72 member hospitals for the treatment of 15,671 cases. Non-member hospitals treated 1,957 cases and received $109,388 for their services.

"Blue Cross has paid out $62,734,715 for the care of 981,547 subscribers since its beginning in 1938," Gates said.

Highest payment for September was the $64,110 paid to the University of Pennsylvania hospital. Jefferson hospital treated 638 subscribers and received $62,270. A total of $57,965 was paid to Temple University hospital for the care of 876 subscribers. Jewish hospital received $56,689 for the care of 797 cases.

Twenty-two hospitals have received over a million dollars each from Blue Cross for the care of subscribers. Four of these, Hahnemann, Jefferson, Jewish and Temple, have received over two million dollars each.

MANGANESE HUB

ATLANTA—About one-half the world supply of manganese is produced by Georgia.

In The Open

The weekend came through with a boreal punch which literally knocked out the countryside. For three years in a row a few icy blasts and some powder-puff feints at snowing were all that disturbed the comfortable existence of the wild folk during the dark days. Old timers talked themselves into half believing that "old-fashioned winters" were gone for good. They stowed away the Thanksgiving turkey and trimmings, little suspecting that in 48 hours they would be waiting out a swaggering bully of a storm which blocked highways, paralyzed business and wrought enough general havoc to more than make up for those three easy winters.

The countryman, immured in his valley home, watches the driving gales throw four-foot drifts against his garage doors. Completely grounded, he addresses himself to such cozy tasks as clearing out his cluttered desk and improving his skill with the dish towel. There are many compensations for being enclosed in the tumultuous privacy of storm.

Marvel At Beauty

He who marvels at the beauty of the world in summer can find equal cause for wonder and admiration when snows dim all the sky and hide far and near in fogbanks of white magic. Look up at the miracle of the falling snow—the air a whirling maze of eddying flakes disguising in the same suit of spotless livery all objects upon which they fall.

Fantastic ruffles suddenly adorn the neighborhood fences, scalloped and fluted after the most modern styling. The bird bath becomes a monstrous ice cream cone, topped by a tremendous scoop of purest vanilla. Puff balls of jeweler's cotton show up here and there along the branches in the shrubbery nooks.

There comes a momentary lull and the countryman hustles out with wide shovel, firmly resolved to demolish the beleaguering drifts between his front door and the garage. This is a heart-warming task, the kind of work a man can get his back into. The world lies all about in a trance of snow and the woods against the far hill look stern and dark and cold.

Hardly has he made it to the garage and paused to admire his handiwork when "Mother Carey" starts picking a new batch of chickens. The eager wind reaches deep into the unseen quarry and mocks his toilsome efforts by shortly drifting full his hard-won pathway from wall to wall. Badly beaten in his first sortie against the fierce artificer, the countryman retires indoors to ilck his wounds and marvel at the frolic architecture of the snow.

Put Bird Feeders To Work

Now is the time to put the bird feeders to work and to make sure the tiny feathered folk can find the suet in the wire baskets tacked against the trees. Hungry birds come now, when snows are deep, to barnyards and dooryards, seeking companionship and sustenance. Even a few crumbs scattered in a cleared area will be appreciated by the courageous mites.

A Carolina wren has made several profitable trips close about the house during the two-day storm. By carefully searching out the hideouts close against the eaves and under the overhanging roofs she has picked up several warm meals of lady beetles and assorted "bugs" holed up for the winter. The crows wisely follow the edgings of the wide valley stream. Here they scour open areas where there is always a chance of a stray bit of food finding lodgment.

The four-footed folk find tougher going while the drifts remain, but they will manage. Rabbits and mice will levy toll on any young apple or wild cherry bark they may encounter. The gray squirrel digs unerringly to buried provender. How he knows where to dig no man can tell.

Deep in his snug burrow the fat groundhog snores on, unmindful of the sound and fury overhead. The chipmunk moves into his warehouse for a noonday snack and the muskrat dines well on calamus roots while the snows lash at his winter lodge. The shy deer are hard put when the snows lie deep, and the fox knows hunger.

The countryman knows that behind the mailed fist of the icy blast and beneath the savage onslaught of the driving snow the warm pulse of yet another spring beats surely. The artistry turns now from the brush and palette of the warm colorful months to the chisel and mallet. But when the lanes of the woods are dusk at noon as the snows come in silence, the countryman walks abroad, wandering as one who has set foot on undiscovered shores, and feels a hush of spirit as though he walked cathedral solitudes.

Army And Navy Game Headlines Saturday Grid Card

College Football Season Wheezes To Close; Few Important Contests

By JOHN BARRINGTON
(International News Service Sports Writer)

New York, Dec. 1.—The college football season wheezes to a somewhat anti-climatic close tomorrow with less than a score of major games scattered around the nation.

Top item on the agenda is the 51st Army-Navy game, which will attract a crowd of 100,000 including President Truman to Philadelphia's Municipal stadium.

Aside from the traditional aspect of the game, Army will be seeking to get through its 29th consecutive contest without defeat. The Cadets have won 17 in a row since being held to a 21-all tie by Navy in 1948.

Oklahoma Seeks 31st

Two other unbeaten teams—Miami and Oklahoma—also wind up their regular schedules. The Floridians play host to a below-par Missouri eleven tonight, while Oklahoma plays at Oklahoma A. & M. tomorrow.

The Sooners are after their 31st straight victory.

Miami and Oklahoma, headed for the Orange and Sugar bowls, respectively, aren't the only bowl-bound teams in action. Tennessee, one of the Cotton Bowl entries, takes its once-beaten record to Vanderbilt.

The Vols' New Year's Day opponent, Texas, defeated Texas A. & M. yesterday, 17 to 0.

Irish vs. Trojans

Otherwise, the schedule is nothing to rave about. Even Notre Dame's invasion of Southern California has little significance, neither being a powerhouse this year. Coach Frank Leahy isn't even expected to see the Irish play as he stayed home with an attack of flu.

Other games include: VPA at Maryland, Syracuse at Fordham, Auburn vs. Alabama at Birmingham, Georgia Tech at Georgia, Rice at Baylor, Tulsa at Houston, Mississippi State at Mississippi, Texas Christian at Southern Methodist, Louisiana State at Tulane, North Carolina at Virginia, Kansas State at Wichita, Richmond at William and Mary, Holy Cross at Boston college and Penn State at Pitt.

Lopez, in his 19 years in the majors, caught 1,862 games, more than any other big league receiver.

Pulaskis Prepare For Sunday Tilt With Girl Stars

Coach Teddy "Peaches" Kolcz has the K. Pulaski "Big Five" about ready for the opening battle next Sunday at the Arena with the All-American Girl "Red Heads" basketball team. Game time is 6:15 o'clock.

Kolcz has not as yet announced his starting lineup but will do so Saturday. Last year the girls made a "big hit" here by dropping a close 47-46 game to the Pulaskis. The fans marvelled at their agility on the hardwood court.

The All-American girls have played to packed gyms in every city in the country. Popular prices prevail for the game, it was announced by business manager Eddie Carr.

Directors Hold Fine Session

Business Manager Is Discussed

New Castle Citizens' Baseball, Inc., board of directors meeting was held last night at the office of Al Scarazzo, South Mill street.

Present at the session were directors—Scarazzo, president; Rocco Vitale, secretary; William F. DeCarbo, vice-president; Anthony Conti, Robert Houk, and Art Prioletti. Attorney Frank Moretti, business manager for 1950 was also present.

Good Idea Advanced

Plans were discussed for the hiring this year of an out-of-town promotional and business manager to exploit the 1951 New Castle team in the Middle-Atlantic league. An effort will be made to hire a first-class baseball man for the job.

Other matters discussed were the paying of several accounts accrued during the 1950 season.

Hope For Winner

Matters pertaining to the concession at Flaherty Memorial Field were also discussed. The ball club will operate the concession this year, the out-of-town contract having expired.

While the war clouds seem to be gathering faster, an effort will be made to provide the city with a championship team this coming summer. Baseball provides a good means of summer recreation.

Season Basketball Tickets Available

J. H. Earl McKenzie, business manager at Senior High has announced that there are available season basketball tickets at $7.50 per ticket, and asks that all who want them send in checks to him at Senior High not later than next Thursday.

There are 10 home games this year including four- pre-league games, with six in Section III.

Youngstown East will be here next Friday night for the season lid-lifter. All season ticket holders can pick up their tickets at the box office at the opening game, McKenzie stated.

Ted Williams will arrive in Florida within a week, which means he will begin getting ready for baseball.

Hockey League Leads At Stake

(By International News Service)

First place in both the western and eastern divisions of the American Hockey league will be on the line tomorrow night with the Hershey Bears a good bet to take over the leadership of the eastern sector.

The Bears trail the Buffalo Bisons by a half game and a victory over lowly Indianapolis would shove them into first place ahead of the idle Bisons.

In the West, the rough Cincinnati Mohawks continue their feuding with the Cleveland Barons tomorrow night in Cleveland. A victory for Cincinnati would deadlock them with the Barons for top stop in the West. A full house is expected for the Mohawk-Barons game as the two teams have played several rough contests which were marked by frequent fist fights.

New Haven vs. Hornets

New Haven, Cellar dwellers in the eastern division, takes on Pittsburgh and Springfield meets St. Louis in other AHL games tomorrow night.

The Cincinnati Mohawks whipped Springfield, 4-1, last night in only league game.

No games are scheduled for tonight.

'Head-Pin' Tourney Postponed For Week

The women's "Head-Pin" bowling tourney scheduled for the Castle Alleys Sunday, December 3, has been postponed for one week, it was announced today by Maxine Krueger. Play will take place Sunday, December 10.

There has been considerable interest shown in the tourney, first of its kind ever attempted here, by the ladies. The heavy snow storm caused the postponment owing to parking facilities.

Rizzuto Signs His 1951 Contract

NEW YORK, Dec. 1.—(INS)—Phil Rizzuto, ace shortstop of the world champion New York Yankees and the American league's most valuable player in 1950, signed his 1951 contract Thursday for an estimated $50,000.

Clinic To Follow Basketball Games

Following the regularly scheduled Church League games tonight at the YMCA, the New Castle PIAA referee's association will present a basketball clinic.

Ray Nolte will be in charge and all that are interested are invited to attend this clinic.

The clinic will be based on rules and rule changes, and pertinent questions will be answered.

The evening games pit the Highlanders against the First Christian.. at 7:00 p.m., and V. Emmanuel against the First Congregation at 8:00 p.m.

Boudreau, hired when he was 24 years old, youngest manager ever to be signed in the Major Leagues, was one of the outstanding shortstops of Cleveland and professional baseball history, although his managerial ability was under fire many times—from fans as well as his bosses.

Warriors Pad League Lead

(By International News Service)

The Philadelphia Warriors have widened their first place lead in the eastern division of the National Basketball Association to three full games.

The Warriors edged the Syracuse Nationals last night, 81 to 78, while the second-spot Boston Celtics bowed to the Washington Capitols, 85 to 71.

The New York Knickerbockers replaced Syracuse in the third position as they topped the Rochester Royals, 79 to 74.

Teams in the western division were not scheduled.

Scoreless Tie In Hockey Loop

(By International News Service)

The National Hockey league's epidemic of ties continues to flourish today with a scoreless deadlock between Montreal and Toronto the latest entry.

It increased Toronto's league lead to eight points over idle Detroit.

NEW YORK, Dec. 1.—(INS)—Ray Famechon, featherweight champion of France, and Archie Devino of Newark, N. J., headline tonight's Madison Square Garden fight card, which includes three ten-round bouts. SPORT SHORTS

Bill Veeck, owner of the Tribe from 1946 until 1949, attempted to peddle Boudreau in 1947 but a storm of protests from fans caused Veeck to sign the dark-haired infielder to a two-year contract for about $65,000, making him the highest paid pilot in the majors those years.

Muny Court Clerk Accused Of Taking $2,500 Of Court Funds

PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 1—(INS)—Robert B. Carson, 37, municipal court clerk and son of Philadelphia's chief policewoman, has been accused of embezzling $2,500 of court funds.

Quarter sessions clerk Edward W. Furia said Carson had admitted a series of defalcations and had returned $1,700 of the money.

Furia announced last night he was turning the case over to the district attorney's office. The accused clerk has been suspended, he added.

Carson, executive clerk of municipal court's department of accounts, has been active for many years in the young Republicans of Philadelphia and was named president of the organization in 1940.

He is the son of Mrs. Norma B. Carson, chief of the women's division of the Bureau of Police. His father, the late Robert Carson, served as a magistrate and a deputy coroner. Mrs. Carson also is a former magistrate.

Furia made the announcement in a letter to City Controller Joseph S. Clark asking for a "thorough audit" of court accounts. He asserted Carson took the money from funds sent by husbands to fulfill court support orders.

Henrich will leave on a Holy Year pilgrimage to Rome next month with a group of sports figures. Tommy will present a mounted autographed baseball to Pope Pius XII on behalf of the world champion Yankees.

Seventh Building Roof Collapses

EAST LIVERPOOL, O., Dec. 1.—The tri-state district's seventh building to collapse under a record snowfall was recorded Thursday when the McBee pottery store at near-by Chester, W. Va., owned by City Councilman Samuel McBee, was wrecked.

The store's roof caved in, bulging the walls and crashing hevy timbers on a large stock of pottery ware. Damage exceeded $5,000.

Winter's Back

Back to Business As Usual? Yes!

Surroundings Back to Normal? Not Quite,

but we at Winter's say "Orchids" to our Mayor and City Council, the County Commissioners and all the City and County coworkers for their valiant efforts to restore things to normal. During this emergency the work of our local and State police, City and Township Fire Departments deserve a "Well Done" and "Thank You." The Red Cross and all the volunteer workers accomplished many commendable tasks. Many other groups and individuals contributed to the all out wonderful effort that is bringing New Castle "back". Our bus company and its drivers also deserve a hand for battling the snow to restore normal service. "Neither rain, nor snow, nor sleet, nor gloom of night can stay these couriers from the swift completion of their appointed rounds". The slogan of our Post Office is typical of the splendid effort against big odds being made by the fellows we know as "the mailman". To each and every one who has contributed his time and effort in this emergency we say, Congratulations and Thanks. Above all, the friendly spirit and cooperation these last few days makes us proud to live in New Castle—"The Friendly City".

We here at Winter's have well stocked shelves of needs and gift items. We will be open Monday and Friday evenings till Christmas. Shop tonight until nine and remember it will be more important than ever this year to shop early for Christmas.

PRICE ISN'T EVERYTHING!
When looking for an automobile, either new or used, do not let price alone influence you. The quality of the car deserves much consideration, but more than anything else, consider the selling dealer. The business "record" of the dealer is very important. His policies and his ability and willingness to stand behind his merchandise and agreements AFTER the SALE are what actually determines the soundness of the transaction.
We are determined to see that you are satisfied to the utmost; and we have the experience and equipment to do just that. Why not give us a chance to show you how we do business?

New Employes Added To Federal Payroll, Rate Of 1,000 Per Day

WASHINGTON, Dec. 1.—(INS)—Congress was told today that new employes were added to the federal payroll at the rate of 1,000 a day in October to meet stepped-up military demands for civilian manpower.

The military establishment actually hired 37,207 additional persons during the month, but the overall increase was cut to 33,563 by a decline of 3,644 in employes at other government agencies.

The latest employment figures were contained in a report to the joint committee on reduction of non-essential federal expenditures, headed by Sen. Byrd (D) Va.

Byrd disclosed that the government's civilian payroll for September, last month for which figures are available, was running at the rate of seven billion dollars a year. This compares with an administration estimate of six billion seven hundred million dollars made last January.

Bergoll's Son Is Under Arrest As Evader Of Draft

NEW YORK, Dec. 1.—(INS)—Alfred Bergdoll, 23, son of Grover Cleveland Bergdoll, the notorious draft dodger of World War I, was arrested by FBI agents in New York City today—also as a draft evader.

Young Bergdoll, now working as a typist in New York, is charged with failure to report for induction on November 9 to his local draft board.

FBI agents said that Bergdoll claimed that he is conscientious objector—not on religious grounds but on general principles.

Bergdoll previously had refused to report to a Philadelphia draft board in October, 1946, on the same grounds. The board denied his claims, and both state and national board refused to give him a hearing.

Now Live In Virginia

The FBI in New York said that Bergdoll's parents are now living at River Edge, Charles City, Va.

The son was quoted by the FBI as saying he consulted his parents on his stand and was advised by them that he was wrong.

Bergdoll is being held for arraignment before a U. S. commissioner. He is charged specifically with violation of the selective service act of 1948.

If convicted he faces a possible maximum sentence of five years in prison and a fine of $10,000.

Bergdoll is single.

MILLBURN

Millburn, like other communities, is slowly digging out of the snow. The Perry highway has, of course, been open for traffic for several days and bulldozers and private tractors equipped with blades are opening the side roads, while individuals are shoveling out their driveways and cleaning flat roofs. Electric service has not been interrupted and phone service only partially. So this neighborhood feels itself very fortunate.

"Students Are Being Shunted Off To Bars"

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., Dec. 1.—(INS)—Harvard undergraduate newspaper said today in a "tsk-tsk" article that students "are being shunted off to bars" with their girl friends because they are prohibited from taking them up to their rooms.

The Harvard Crimson, which has been conducting a campaign to permit dates in the dormitories until midnight, said bar-going was bad for both boys and girls.

University president James B. Conant remained silent.

Trolley Service In Pittsburgh About 80 Per Cent Resumed

PITTSBURGH, Dec. 1.—(INS)—Officials expect trolley service to be about 80 per cent restored in Pittsburgh today as crews continued their herculean task of clearing city streets of the record snowfall.

At the same time the ban on automobiles in the downtown area was continued through today with National Guard troops stationed at many roads into the city with orders to halt all but those with "essential" business in the city.

The weatherman said more snow was expected over the week end, but there was no estimate how heavy the fall might be.

The Steel City was virtually paralyzed by the record fall last week end that measured 30.5 inches deep and the city has been digging out since.

Snow Removal Progress Made

Schweinsberg Is Directing Work

Snow removal was still under way in all sections of the city today, and owing to the cooperation between Mayor John F. Haven, and all members of council, plus Streets Commissioner Joe O'Leary, all main arteries now permit two-way traffic, and passage-ways for trucks carrying foodstuffs and milk exist on side street.

The snow-removal had reached such a point yesterday that Mayor John F. Haven suggested to council that E. Gene Schweinsberg, director of streets, take over sole directing power, and that he and members of council direct work, under the supervision of Mr. Schweinsberg.

The suggestion met with approval of all council and at 7 a.m. today, all of them, excepting Finance Director Albert Hoyland, appeared at the streets department in Grove street, received their directions from Mr. Schweinsberg and departed to supervise snow removal.

Mr. Hoyland was kept at the city building to assume charge of any city affairs that may arise during the absence of Mayor Haven.

President And Cabinet Meet On Korea Crisis

By ROBERT G. NIXON
(I. N. S. Staff Correspondent)

WASHINGTON, Dec. 1.—President Truman met with his cabinet and congressional leaders today to determine whether full U. S. mobilization must be ordered to repulse Red China's aggression and avert another world war.

Congressional chiefs representing both major parties went to the White House for the mobilization conference and cabinet members, who had conferred with Mr. Truman earlier, remained for the vitally important discussion.

Attorney General McGrath, first official to leave the President's office, said the cabinet had discussed commodities and manpower. McGrath said the legislative leaders would receive a detailed report on the military situation.

The attorney general said that so far he sees no need for additional war powers for the President in the current emergency.

Clearing Snow From Building Threatens Electric Service

Electric service to one central business block was threatened today when snow was cleaned from the top of a downtown building.

Pennsylvania Power company attaches warned against sweeping snow off buildings where there are primary lines.

They stated that if business house operators want information as to how to escape putting current out of commission, they should ask the company for information.

No Warning On Offensive Of Chinese Reds

WASHINGTON, Dec. 1.—(INS)—Gen. MacArthur declared today he had "no warning" of the Chinese Communist offensive in Korea before the United Nations command launched what he expected to be a "decisive" battle against the Communist armies.

MacArthur declared that "there were no warnings, nor were any warnings necesary" because "a winter offensive is as hard on enemy as upon friendly forces."

He also pointed out that detection of enemy movements was made difficult because the Chinese Communists were only "a night's march" from the Red sanctuary in Manchuria to the front in Korea.

No Comment on Bomb

The United Nations commander declined to comment on the "effectiveness or ineffectiveness" of the atomic bomb in the Korean campaign.

MacArthur made his comments in a special interview with a representative of the U.S. News and World Report—a privately published magazine—in Tokyo. The interview was made public in Washington.

In discussing the Korean situation, the general flatly declared UN forces are working under an enormous handicap, "without precedent in military history" caused by United Nations limitations preventing "unlimited pursuit of Chinese large forces and unlimited attacks on their bases" presumably beyond the Korean border.

MacArthur refused comment on two questions put by the weekly magazine on the atomic bomb ques-

Continue To Dig Out Roads In Rural Areas

Maintenance forces of the State Highway Department are concentrating their efforts on the secondary and back roads which are under the surveillance of the State Highway Department in order that these roads might be opened to the farms of the district.

Alfred A. Martin, County Highway Superintendent, is supervising the work of opening these roads along with the able assistance of his assistants, Glenn Hileman and Claude McFall. Work is centering on a number of the gravel roads and difficulty is being experienced in getting these lesser traveled roads opened to traffic.

Looks Better Now

"The overall picture," stated Mr. Martin, "looks pretty bright now, barring any unforseen storms or bad drifting of the roads. A few days of slightly milder temperatures will practically free all the county roads of danger."

The large double wing plow is still in operation on various roads as it pushes back the large snow drifts. The "snow-go" machine which operated on several roads in the county was moved to Washington County for work there.

The department has released the rented equipment it had in operation during the height of the emergency and only state-owned equipment is being used at the present time. It was expected by noon today that the department crews would be back to normal work.

Truman Will Ask Billions

(BULLETIN)

WASHINGTON, Dec. 1.—(INS)—President Truman said today he will ask Congress for 17 billion 850 million dollars for military and Atomic spending to meet the Korean crisis and build up the armed forces to a strength of 2,700,000 in the next year.

The chief executive made his crisis disclosures to legislative leaders summoned to the White House for a mobilization

May Continue Criminal Cases

Some Witnesses Are Out Of Reach

In all likelihood a number of the criminal cases scheduled to be presented to the December grand jury will be continued. Because of the heavy snow over the county it has been impossible for County Detective Howard C. Klebe to subpoena witnesses necessary to the presentation of the cases.

Witnesses have been supboenaed in a number of cases and these will be called to testify before the grand jury. The outlook is for a short session of the grand jury, perhaps one day. It open Monday, December 4.
